PARENTE APPEALS LAIRD DECISION

Panepinto Fired as City Patrolman

Council Action Is Unanimous

Monessen Patrolman Phillip Panepinto was dismissed from the force this morning by City Council.

Mayor Hugo J. Parente made the suggestion following study of a transcript of a hearing held before Council last June 12.

The motion was unanimously approved although Councilman David Victoria was absent.

The Mayor made two formal charges against Panepinto. Both of the alleged offenses occurred during the 11 p. m. to 7 a. m. shift on May 23.

One charge was that he "failed to make hourly calls to police headquarters . . . on May 23 and on other occasions". The other was "sleeping on duty."

At the hearing Panepinto did not deny the first charge entirely. But he denied the "sleeping on duty" charge, stating he "was not sleeping but relaxing" when seen in a parked taxicab by Lt. Joseph Reday.

Opposed Parente

Panepinto, who along with several other members of the Police Department, opposed Parente in the recent Democratic primary. He was not present when the decision was announced.

He had previously been in the Council chambers but left when the "yellow" air raid alert interrupted sessions. He did not return when the meeting was resumed late this morning.

Panepinto, 41, is a 10-year veteran on the force, having originally been assigned to checking parking meters.

The Monessen Page plant of the American Chain and Cable Co. Inc. will suspend operations Sunday morning at 8 a. m. for the annual two-week vacation.

Harvey Seymour, general manager, said that operations will resume midnight on July 28.

During the two-week period, the plant will be managed by a small stand-by crew for protection purposes. That will free practically all of Page's 850 employes for vacations.

Seymour said the employes will share $205,000 in vacation pay. Part of the money was distributed yesterday and the rest will be given to workers today.

Southerners to Permit Vote on Civil Rights Bill

WASHINGTON (UP)—Southern opponents today agreed to permit a showdown vote "the middle of next week" in the first round of the Senate battle over the civil rights bill.

The decision was reached in a 50-minute conference in the office of Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.) leader of the Southern bloc waging an all-out fight against President Eisenhower's four - point program. The huddle preceded the fifth day of Senate debate on the highly controversial issue.

The exact day will be worked out later with Senate Democratic leader Lyndon B. Johnson and Republican leader William F. Knowland.

Knowland meanwhile told reporters after a conference with President Eisenhower today there is no justification for charges by some Northern Democrats that the White House is wavering in its support of the bill.

He said the administration's civil rights recommendations still stand. But he added the White House has "never taken the position that there should be no clarifying amendments."

Russell told newsmen he would prefer the vote to be Wednesday or Thursday but said it might be as early as Tuesday. He said the Dixie senators would not agree to an earlier vote.

The vote would be on the procedural motion of Knowland for the Senate to take up the bill directly, bypassing the Judiciary Committee.

Red Army Dissension Rumored

LONDON (UP)—Dissension in the top leadership of the Red army was rumored today in informed diplomatic quarters.

Differences were reported to have emerged between Marshal Georgi Zhukov and Marshal Alexander Vassilievski, the "brain" behind Russia's wartime victories against Germany.

Vassilievski, Zhukov's deputy in the ministry of defense, was termed a potential rival to Zhukov in the struggle for power. He is also considered an advocate of a tougher policy towards the West.

There was no official confirmation of these reports which reached London from behind the Iron Curtain today.

The reports suggested that the current differences may lead to the quiet disappearance from the Red army leadership of Vassiliev ski in the near future.

Remained Silent

The reports said Vassilievski failed to support the latest denunciation of the V. M. Molotov trio by Party Boss Nikita Khrushchev and Marshal Zhukov.

Other leading marshals of the Red army have rallied ostentatiously behind Khrushchev and Zhukov, including Marshal Ivan Koniev, himself a former rival to Zhukov.

The indications were that the majority of the generals so far stand behind Zhukov, who thus is in virtual control of the Red army at present — now the most powerful single factor in keeping the Khrushchev regime in power.

However, these developments have thrown new light on the Red army which thus far was considered as wholly united.

Vassilievski must thus be considered as a disturbing element in the Khrushchev's precarious struggle for power, experts said today.

May Be Removed

They believed he might be removed, because Khrushchev would not feel secure while the apparently antagonistic marshal was in a responsible and powerful position, capable of exercising influence in the Red army leadership.

Vassilievski's past is linked closely with Stalin, who personally picked him as his chief of staff during World War II, almost as soon as Stalin assumed supreme command of the Russian forces.

He also was considered linked with Molotov, and in the 1949 reshuffle when Molotov temporarily abandoned the foreign ministry, Vassilievski was relieved of his post as minister of the Soviet armed forces.

Soviet affairs experts suggested that the latest purge is by no means completed and would almost certainly extend to lower levels of the Soviet hierarchy. But they believed that the purging would be done quietly with as little publicity as possible.

Monessen Air Raid Alert Is Sounded; CD Workers on Job

BULLETIN

The "take cover" signal sounded in Monessen today at 1:46 p. m., indicating the City was under mock nuclear attack in the nationwide Civil Defense test.

The "alert" signal was sounded in the Monessen district today at 11:30 a. m. as the nation underwent a mock nuclear attack designed to test civil defense preparations.

In Monessen, CD director W. Roy McShaffrey mobilized his workers at the signal and assigned them to their posts in the event the city received the "take cover" signal.

Not all state communities will actually be placed under "attack". Until the "take cover" signal is sounded, the Monessen area will not know if it is to be the target for theoretical enemy bombers.

The "alert" signal was a long steady blast of sirens, horns and whistles. That indicated the possibility of attack and informed CD workers to report to their pre-assigned posts.

Very Few Hitches

If the "take cover" comes, the sirens will waver. Then all persons will be told to take shelter and traffic will be halted.

The "take cover" is not expected to last more than 15 minutes. However, CD workers will be on duty much later as they are deployed to "target" communities.

In Monessen the "alert" signal caused a little confusion at the intersection of Donner Ave. and Sixth St. Auxiliary police mistakenly halted traffic, tying things up for a bit.

Otherwise the early part of the test came off without a reported hitch.

Simulated surprise atomic attacks on key areas in Pennsylvania during "operation Alert 1957" will test the state's ability to cope with all-out war.

One of the most realistic features of today's nationwide test is that local and county civil defense directors will not know until the "take cover" signal is sounded, whether or not their areas are targets for the theoretical enemy bombers.

The state's 363,000 civil defense workers, mobilized by a late-morning "alert" signal, will muster at local, county and state headquarters to put into operation Pennsylvania's vast attack warning system, operating in conjunction with federal regional directors in Olney, Md.

Two Young Men Killed in Crash Of Truck-Cycle

McKESPORT, Pa. (UP)—Two young men were killed today when their motorcycle crashed into the rear of a trailer truck parked on Walnut St.

The victims were Stenard Pope, 20, of Boston, Pa., and Eugene Di Bittista, 19, of McKeesport. Pope, who received multiple injuries, was dead on arrival at McKeesport Hospital.

The accident occurred about 3:45 a.m. Bittista died three hours later of head injuries. He did not regain consciousness.

Police said the motorcycle was traveling "at a high rate of speed" when it rammed the truck which had been parked legally. The motorcycle was jammed under the truck and the victims had to be pried from the wreckage. Officers believed Pope was the driver.

Roland C. Jenkins, of Baltimore, the truck driver, told police he had pulled to the side of the road to await daybreak before resuming his journey. He was required to post bond with the coroner as a matter of formality.

Housing Bill Signed by Ike

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower signed the $1,990,000,000 housing bill today even though he said it has "a number of serious defects."

The new law permits the Federal Housing Administration to slash to an all - time low the minimum down - payment requirements on new and old homes under its morgage insurance program.

It also authorizes $1,740,000,000 in additional mortgage money, federal loans for college housing, and federal grants for urban renewal and slum clearance.

Ex-FBI Agent To Testify on Steel Infiltration

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Senate Internal Security Subcommittee will call a former federal Bureau of Investigation undercover agent to testify next Tuesday on alleged Communist infiltration into the steel industry in Pennsylvania.

Robert Morris, counsel for the committee, said Thursday the witness will remain nameless until he testifies. Morris said advance publicity in the past has resulted in "intimidation" of prospective witnesses by neighbors, "suspicious or resentful of individuals involved in Communist investigations.

Morris said the witness is one of several called for the opening round of the hearings in Washington centered on Communism in the Lehigh Valley Industrial Region from 1950 to 1956.

He said the hearings will be moved to Philadelphia after Congress adjourns.

Asks Court to Rule on Issue Of Nomination

Mayor Hugo Parente today filed exceptions to a decision by Judge Richard D. Laird, of Westmoreland County common pleas court, which, in effect, declared John R. Stieska the winner in last May's Republican mayoralty contest.

Parente's appeal was filed this morning in the prothonotary's office in Greensburg. It asked Westmoreland County court to rule on the issue en banc—all judges sitting together.

Judge Laird, in his decree on Monday, reversed an earlier decision by the County Elections Board which held Parente the winner.

Parente easily defeated Stieska for the Democratic nomination. Since no Republican candidates filed for the office, the two Democrats also staged a write-in campaign on the GOP ticket.

Judge Laird ruled that votes cast for the two candidates under various versions of their names should be counted. Under that ruling Stieska received 170 valid votes to 149 for Parente.

Filed by Weiss

Earlier the County Elections Board had stated that votes could be counted only if the candidates' names were properly spelled. On that basis, the Board gave Parente 70 votes; Stieska 58.

Parente's appeal was filed by Monessen attorney David Weiss, who is also the city solicitor.

Weiss said the appeal contends that Judge Laird used as the basis for his ruling arguments which applied to paper ballots rather than voting machines.

He contends that an act of June 3, 1937, provided against the cumulation of write-in and sticker votes on voting machines.

Sitting en banc, the court will consist of Judge Laird, Judge Edward G. Bauer and Judge John M. O'Connell. Since Judge Bauer is a candidate for reelection, there is speculation that he may disqualify himself.

There is also the possibility that the State Supreme Court may eventually be asked to settle the disputed point.

Stieska indicated earlier that the State Supreme Court may eventually be asked to settle the disputed point.

Stieska indicated earlier this week that he intends to wage an aggressive campaign if he is the Republican nominee.

A TV Set That Stared Right Back

HASBROUCK HEIGHTS, N.J. (UP) — There is some kind of animal in my TV set. I can see eyes," a frantic housewife telephoned police Thursday.

Police arrived at the home of Mrs. Alice Robol and began examining her television set.

They rattled and shook the set and a squirrel scampered across the floor toward Mrs. Robol's front door being held open by police.

Driver Held in Belle Vernon After Wild Ride

George A. Dacko, 21, of R. D. 3, Belle Vernon, was charged with hit-run driving today following a wild ride through Main St. in Belle Vernon.

Dacko was arrested last night by Chief of Police Vince Isenberg after his car allegedly sideswiped three other vehicles.

Isenberg said Dacko first hit a parked car on Long Alley, then slammed into two more on Main St. The impact of those collisions disabled his car, enabling Isenberg to apprehend him almost immediately.

The damaged cars were owned by John A. Reppert, of 242 Main St., Belle Vernon; William R. Kerr, Pittsburgh, and John E. Gearing, Uniontown.

Isenberg said there were no apparent injuries. He did not estimate damages.

Dacko posted bond before Squire David J. Shaver, of Belle Vernon. No hearing date has been set as yet.

County Hospital To Repay $250,000 To Bishop Lamb

The $250,000 contributed by Bishop Hugh Lamb of the Greensburg Catholic Diocese to the Jeannette District Memorial Hospital building fund will be returned as soon as possible.

M. G. Shevchick, chairman of the hospital committee, said the big committment from the Diocese enabled the hospital to qualify for a share in federal allocations. That amounted to $206,000.

The hospital's officers said they felt a "moral responsibility" to repay the funds to the bishop. A public drive to repay the money will be held about six months after the institution is opened.

The 100-bed hospital, now under construction, will cost an estimated $2,000,000. It will be managed by the Sisters of Charity.

Mayview Hospital Earns Accreditation

HARRISBURG (UP)—The state Welfare Department announced today Mayview State Hospital, Pittsburgh, has received full accreditation from the American Psychiatric Association.

Welfare Secretary Harry Shapiro said 'full credit" should go to Dr. R. F. Downey, Mayview superintendent, for raising the standards of care "in such a short time." Shapiro said conditions were "deplorable" when Dr. Downey took charge.

New Police Cover-up Probe in Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Four Pittsburgh police officers, including an acting lieutenant, go before a police trial board today to answer charges stemming from the alleged beating of rackets figure Tony Grosso.

Safety Director Louis Rosenberg and Police Supt. James Slusser ordered the trial after they learned Grosso was booked for disorderly conduct under the alias "Joseph Moro."

"I can't call it a cover-up at the moment," Rosenberg said after a preliminary examination of the evidence. "It may have been a damn fool thing to do at the time."

The case recalled another alleged cover-up following the shooting last ebruary of acting Lt. Alan Carnahan with his own gun in an afterhours drinking club. Carnahan was suspended from the force for a year but he later resigned.

Accused of conduct unbecoming an officer in the latest incident were Patrolmen William Killeen, John Duffy and George Carr and Acting Lt. Joseph Bell.

Grosso suffered a head injury the morning of July 3. He maintained he was knocked down accidentally by someone trying to catch a trolley and Killeen was kind enough to offer him a handkerchief.

But another report had Grosso struck on the head by a mace wielded by Killeen when the numbers racketeer became abusive.

Tarr and Duffy became involved when they admitted they arrived on the scene shortly after the incident. Bell was in charge of central police station when Grosso was allowed to enter the phony name.

Denies Turnpike Work Was Just Swindle Plot

Defendant Takes Witness Stand For Second Day

HARRISBURG (UP)—A second defendant in the turnpike conspiracy trial returns to the witness stand today after denying that he entered into an alleged plot to swindle the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission.

Clayton A. Landsidle, former vice president and general manager of the Manu-Mine Research and Development Co., Reading, took the witness stand Thursday afternoon to deny categorically each of the 23 counts against him in two indictments charging fraud and conspiracy.

Under questioning from his counsel, David Conroy, Scranton, Landsidle denied any part in authorizing his firm to drill an unlimited number of bore holes for a mine-filling project in connection with the construction of the Northeastern Extension under a 1955 contract with the commission.

Asked if he "falsely represented that the ($12.50 per foot) drilling price reflected in the cost analysis represented 10 per cent profit," Landsidle answered: "I did not."

Private Detectives

The state charges the firm made a 100 per cent profit on the work, through which the nine defendants are charged with attempting to milk the commission of "millions of dollars."

Earler, Charles W. Stickler Jr., Manu-Mine president testified that his firm engaged private detectives to investigate the Commonwealth's charges and found "nothing of any character to justify the charges against us."

Stickler told of how in February, 1956, after the contract was cancelled, he attempted to meet with commission members, but was put off by Chairman G. Franklin McSorley. He said he twice visited commission headquarters in Harrisburg, but was not allowed to enter the commission meetings.

He said finally McSorley told him that he was "satisfied with Manu-Mine work" but that he had "no choice but to yield to the power on the (Capitol) Hill."

Gov. George M. Leader replied to Stickler's telegram asking his assistance in the matter by saying only that the case had been referred to the state Justice Department, Stickler said.

"We have found that we cannot rely on the Justice Department for justice as far as Manu-Mine is concerned," he said.

Leader Vetoes Bill to Charge Park Admission

HARRISBURG (UP) — Legislation to permit Presque Isle State Park at Erei to collect a 25 cent per automobile admission charge has been vetoed.

Gov. George M. Leader rejected the measure late Wednesday as being "discriminatory." He said "I know of no cogent reason for singling out Presque Isle State Park for this special legislation." The governor pointed out that the state's 111 parks are supported by Commonwealth funds. They do not charge admissions.

"The citizens who use the facilities at Presque Isle have a right to expect the same treatment as those who visit state parks in other sections of the state," Leader said.

The measure had earmarked the admissions for use by the park for maintenance and improvement. However, Leader said the park would receive an appropriation which "should be sufficient" to provide adequate safety measures for the park beach.

Insurance Firm Ban Vetoed by Leader

HARRISBURG (UP)—Legislation to prohibit insurance companies from other states and foreign countries from opening new businesses in Pennsylvania has been vetoed.

Gov. George M. Leader rejected the Assembly approved measure late Thursday as not being in the public interest. The legislation would have prevented any outside insurance firm not licensed by Pennsylvania prior to Jan. 1, 1955 from operating in the state.

Leader pointed out existing laws require insurance companies to be "financially sound" and protects the public from "misrepresentations" as to the coverage of policies sold in the Commonwealth.

"This bill would prohibit an insurance company which is either owned or financially controlled, in whole or in part, by another state of the United States from being admitted to do business in Pennsylvania, even though such company may be financially sound and may follow the most ethical standards in dealing with the general public," Leader said.

The governor also rejected measures which would have —Formed a new employe group for coverage under group insurance plans. The governor said the bill would have caused confusion and the possibility of employes being covered by two group insurance plans.

—Require written notice to shareholders prior to meetings to consider increasing indebtedness. Leader said the "substance" of the measure was not objectionable, but it conflicted with other legislation.

—Established a short form of mortgage under the so - called 'master - mortgage procedure." The governor said the bill was "confusing and ambiguous," but suggested the measure be redrafted for submission to the 1959 Legislature.

—Regulated the sale at auctions of jewelry and household electrical appliances. "the provisions of this bill...are unduly oppressive, highly injurious and unreasonable," Leader said.

1957 Total Crop Kept to Lowest Level Since 1951

WASHINGTON (UP)—A combination of adverse weather, production controls, and the soil bank may cut the 1957 total crop to its lowest level since 1951.

The Agriculture Department said in the first production report for the season that floods and excessive rain damaged prospects for corn, cotton, soybeans, and other crops. The adverse weather also forced harvesting delays resulting in reduced yields of many early ripening fall grains.

But the report issued Wednesay said "some improvement in prospects is possible if favorable conditions predominate for growth, maturity, and harvest" the rest of the season.

"Soil moisture has been abundant to excessive over much larger areas than last year," it pointed out. "This abundance could cut later losses from drought and heat. Irrigation water supplies are best in recent years."

This comment seemed to indicate Agriculture Department officials believe this year's total crop could be larger than the report estimated. The report, based on July 1 prospects, said total farm output could drop to 6 per cent below last season.

Rockwell Says Prospects Much Better in State

BRADFORD, Pa. (UP)—Willard F. Rockwell Jr., president of the state Chamber of Commerce, believes prospects are "much brighter now" for increased industrial development in Pennsylvania.

The Pittsburgh industrialist told a 75th anniversary dinner of the Bradford Chamber of Commerce Thursday night the General Assembly improved the picture by exempting manufacturers from the capital stock tax.

"We still need further revision in our corporate tax structure," he said. "But at least we're headed in the right direction."

Rockwell said state-wide acceptance of broad-based taxation should require every Pennsylvanian to take a closer look at state spending.

"Bfore the 3 per cent sales tax, each individual's awareness of his own contributions to the state treasury was very limited," he asserted. "But now the sales tax law requires that the tax be separated from the purchase price—so each of us now knows what he is paying."

POSSIBILITY of Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin winding up in party boss Nikita Khrushchev's wastebasket for supporting the V. M. S.-Russian relations in such an event makes speculation due to friendliness between Zhukov and President Eisenhower.

Khrushchev Wants to Get Along with West

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (UP) Soviet party leader Nikita Khrushchev likened co-existence Thursday night to a "marriage of convenience" between the capitalist and Communist worlds and said there is "no other way."

"There are many cases of people not in love marrying and after they get married they build happy lives," he said at a gala reception while looking straight at the Western diplomats present. "Let us do it. Let us compete and see which system is superior."

"We know you don't like our system," he said. "We were not born with bells ringing but under gunshots. We are convinced we will win. Let us try. Let us stop seeing each other as enemies. I believe there is no other way."

Friendly Foot Forward

"We want friendly relations with capitalist countries, with the United States, France, Britain and other capitalist countries," he said. "The United States is a big, strong country. I also think we are not a small, weak country. We can be considered equal parties."

"Can there be peace?" Khrushchev asked. "War can bring only tears, destruction of human life and horror. We not only do not want war, but we don't want to waste time and resources on armaments."

Khrushchev spoke at a reception in 12-century-old Hradcany Castle, former residence of the Bohemian kings, in answer to a welcoming speech by President Antonin Zapotocky of Czechoslovakia.

Leonid Ilyichev, chief of the Soviet press department, was asked why the Soviet press did not publish the Moscow radio report on Georgi Malenkov being given a minor post in Kazakhstan.

"What we say abroad we say to our country as well, but it is not a Soviet practice to report appointments to minor technical jobs of which there are many thousands," he said.

In response to questions about Vyacheslav Molotov, Lazar Kaganovich and Dmitri Shepilov, Ilyichev answered: "They will not be unemployed."

And when asked if the Soviet Union would publish more material about the "hostile" group Ilyichev said "their activities were not hostile but anti-party."

Western observers believed this meant Khrushchev had decided to be lenient with the Malenkov group and would confine their punishment to banishment from Moscow.

Man Held by Grand Jury in Traffic Death

PITTSBURGH (UP) — John S. Kennerdell, 21, a Buckness University graduate from Tarentum, Pa. has been ordered held for a grand jury in the death of a woman in an automobile-motorcycle collision.

Dr. Eugene Hagan, Oakmont, told an Allegeheny County Coroner's Jury Thursday he examined the pre-med student after the accident last Feb. 3 and found him "moderately under the influence of intoxicating liquor."

The victim was Mrs. Martha M. Diekman, 24, Brackenridge. She was riding tandem on a motorcycle operated by Thomas Richards, 22, New Kensington, when it collided with Kennerdell's car on the Houlton Bridge between Oakmont and Harmarville. Richards lost a leg and still wears his arm in a cast.

Kennerdell was ordered held on a manslaughter charge.

Navaho Missile Development Halted

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Air Force today cancelled development of its Navaho intercontinental guided missile, a weapon designed to fly 1,700 miles an hour.

Air Force Secretary James H. Douglas attributed the cancellation to a limited budget.

Baby's Amazing IQ Disturbing to Foster Parents

SILVER SPRING, Md. (UP) — The amazing IQ of their 2½-year-old adopted daughter is at once the delight and despair of a Washington, D.C., fireman and his wife.

The couple, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Dameron Jr., have been crossed off the waiting list for a second adopted child because a private adoption agency says their girl Dori is too smart.

The Damerons, who live in this Maryland suburb of the U.S. capital, have protested—so far in vain—to the governor of Maryland, their congressmen and county officials. The adoption agency, the Montgomery County Social Service League, says the decision is final.

The league rejected the Dameron's application for another child after psychological tests placed Dori's IQ at 147—very superior.

Miss O'Malley said the couple was considered for a child of average intelligence but added placing such a child in the same family with Dori wouldn't be fair to either youngster.

So far, Miss O'Malley has the final word: "What many prospective parents don't understand is that we are in business to find the best home for a child, not to find children for parents who want them."

Wrong Driver Listed in Report

In an accident report earlier this week, it was stated that Ortenzio Maione, of 1126 George St., Monessen, was one of the two drivers involved.

Police reports showed that one of the cars involved was owned by Maione but that it was being driven by Mary Maione, same address, at the time of the mishap.

Washington Hassle in Second Round Today

Washington County Controller Peter Elish today offered his side of the current controversy with County Treasurer Harvey Stuart which threatens to force a probe into the county's financial status.

Elish, sharply criticized by Stuart yesterday, has this comment:

"He (referring to Stuart) is just going to have to find out like everyone else that the controller's office is an independent office."

Stuart had earlier charged that the county was going broke because of unbudgeted expenditures. He also charged that salaries in the controller's office was much larger than those in his office.

The treasurer, a long-time political rival of Elish, said he was going to ask the County Commissioners to look into the situation.

"We have been pretty good to Stuart," said Elish. "His budget runs about $8,000 over the average of previous treasurers."

Elish said he had no right to hold up payment on bills, even if they weren't budgeted.

"And Stuart will find that he doesn't have any choice about signing these checks," added Elish. "It is mandatory for him to sign them."

Elish also challenged Stuart's charge that clerks in his office make $257 per month. Actually the figure is $236, Elish said.

VFW Opposed to Status Agreement

HARRISBURG (UP)—The Pennsylvania Veterans of Foreign Wars at their annual encampment here have approved a resolution calling for the abandonment of the United States Status-of-Forces treaties.

Acting at a meeting Thursday afternoon, before news of the U.S. Supreme Court decision upholding the treaty reached them, the veterans passed a resolution demanding that GI William Girard be continued in American custody and favoring "the abandonment or revision" of the international agreement by which he would be turned over to Japan for trial.

U. S. Says Cancer, Cigarettes Linked

Study of Reports Is Completed

WASHINGTON (UP) — The U. S. Public Health Service said today there is "increasing and consistent evidence" that "excessive" cigarette smoking is one of the factors which can cause lung cancer.

Surgeon General Leroy E. Burney said studies have "confirmed beyond a reasonable doubt that there is a high degree of statistical association between lung cancer and heavy prolonged cigarette smoking."

He issued the statement after the Public Health Service completed a review of the report of a study group on smoking and health, which found a "direct relationship between the incidence of lung cancer and the amount smoked."

Strongest Government Comment

It was the strongest statement the government has made to date on the subject.

Burney said copies, along with scientific findings, are being sent to state health officers and the American Medical Assn., "with the request that they consider distributing copies to local health officers, medical societies and other health groups."

The health service made no specific recommendations as to what the public should do in the light of its statement. A spokesman said "putting the facts before the public is as far as we can go at this time."

A spokesman for the U.S. tobacco industry said Burney's statement "adds nothing new to what has been known about the cause of lung cancer."

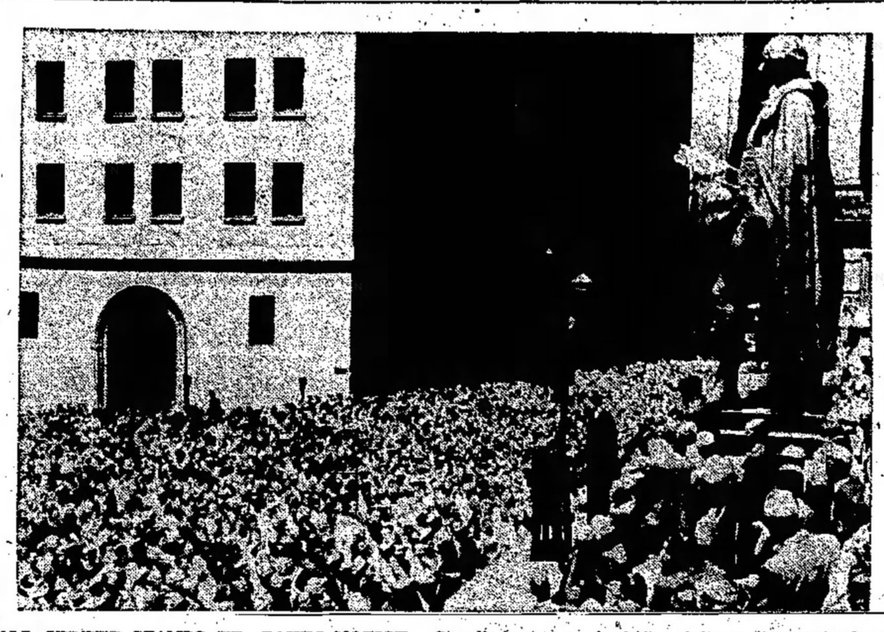
Discounts Any Link

Dr. Clarence Cook Little, chairman of the scientific advisory board to the Tobacco Industry Research Committee, reiterated his group's stand that there is no "definitive" evidence to establish "a cause and effect explanation of the complex problem of lung cancer."

In its official position in 1954, the Public Health Service took a milder view, saying there was "some evidence of a statistical association between cigarette smoking and lung cancer."

Today's statement went much further, definitely labelling "excessive" cigarette smoking as a "causative" factor.

Two packs of cigarettes a day is considered "excessive," a spokesman said.



WALL STREET STANDS UP, TAKES NOTICE— Standing at a makeshift pulpit on the spot where George Washington (that's his statue) took his oath of office, evangelist Billy Graham tells a street-clogging, lunch-time throng of 30,000 at Broad and Wall streets in New York that "you can be a rich man and still be miserable down inside." A group of top-flight executives occupied platform with Graham.

Fund Bills Signed by Leader

HARRISBURG (UP) — Gov. Gorge M. Leader late Thursday signed 19 appropriations bills passed by the Legislature providing more than 135 million dollars for various state departments and agencies during the next two years.

The governor did not reduce any of the money bills, although he is legally entitled by the Constitution to do so. However, Leader pointed out the $13,5385,900 allocated was substantially less than he requested.

The largest amount, $129,600,000 went to the Public Assistance Department for the two year biennium ending June 1, 1959 and payment of debts left over from the past biennium.

Leader also signed legislation earmarking three million dollars for the Industrial Development Authority. He did not comment upon asking the Legislature for five million dollars for the adthority. The smallest appropriation was the bi-annual $600 given the Cornplanter ndian Reservation, Elk Twp., Warren County, for road maintenance.

Other Measures

Gov. Leader also signed measures to:

—Allow the state Supreme and Superior courts to adopt general rules of practice and procedure for all criminal actions in lower courts. The measure also allowed appellate courts to appoin tCriminal Procedural Rules Committees.

—Make it unlawful for a domestic or foreign corporation to do business in Pennsylvania under an assumed or fictitious name.

—Extend pension benefits under the state employes' retirement system to present and formr General Assembly members in th Legislature prior to Dec. 1, 1954.

—Reduce from 60 to 10 days the prior notification period given stockholders before corporation meetings.

VFW Tank Memorial Fund at Half-way Mark, Members Told

A drive to raise funds for a World War II memorial at City Park has reached the half-way mark, it was announced last night at a meeting of the Allison-Lescanac Post 1190, Veterans of Foreign Wars.

The campaign, which is being conducted among the membership of the Post, has realized more than $400.

The memorial — a Sherman tank — which is to be erected at a suitable site in City Park, will cost approximately $900 to buy and ship to Monessen.

Elaborate plans are being formulated to make the site an impressive memorial to World War II dead.

Those who haven't contributed were urged to do so soon by Commander John Hurrianko at the meeting.

New Member

Jack Francis Centanni, of Monessen, was admitted as a new member.

A contribution to the Westmoreland County branch of the Pennsylvania Association for the Blind was approved.

Letters announcing the annual Westmoreland County Council picnic on Sunday, Aug. 11 at the New Kensington Post 92 and the visitation of the new Department Commander on Tuesday, July 30, were read.

Financial and membership reports were made by Richard Pustelak and R. Mitchell Steen Jr., respectively.

Committee reports were heard as follows:

Edwin Melenyzer, chairman of the building committee, on progress made remodeling the club room at the Post Home; Junior Vice Commander Socrates Loulis on installation of electric brakes on the jeep and caisson burial unit and Senior Vice Commander Walter Kwolek on Memorial Day activities.

The next meeting of the Post will be held Thursday, Aug. 1.

Brothers Move Into Gorley Lake Hotel Monday

About 100 members of a religious group known as the Society of Brothers will move into the sprawling Gorley Lake Hotel near Uniontown on Monday.

The Society, devoted to communal-living, recently purchased the 80 room structure as well as 110 acres of adjoining property.

Somewhat similar to the early Mennonites, the Society describes itself as a non-sectarian group. The Brothers believe that voluntary poverty and simplicity, an open door to all sincere seekers irrespective of nation, creed, race, age or wealth is the answer to the confused and frustrated condition of contemporary man.

Negotiations for the hotel purchase were completed yesterday by C. H. Arnold, traveling representative of the Society and a son of the founder, Eberland Arnold.

The hotel facilities will be converted to living quarters, a school and manufacturing plant.

Half of the initial group will be children. They will receive their elementary education at a school in the hotel.

A public display room will be opened later. On sale will be products manufactured by the religious group, including wood bowls and plates of South American lapacho wood.

The site has been renamed Oak Lake.

Queen Elizabeth Snubs Juke Box Playing Duke

LONDON (UP) — Queen Elizabeth II has snubbed a British duke because he has installed a juke box in his ancestral palace to bring in paying tourists, a London newspaper said today.

Columnist Simon Ward of the tabloid Daily Sketch said the Queen had turned down an invitation to attend a coming out party at Woburn Abbey, home of the Duke of Bedford.

The party tonight is for Lorna Lyle, daughter of the Duchess of Bedford by her first marriage.

Though invitations went out to the Queen, the Duke of Edinburgh, Princess Margaret, the Duchess of Kent, the Duke of Kent and Princess Alexandra, they all declined, Ward said.

The reason is that the Queen doesn't like the Duke's methods of drawing visitors to his centuries old mansion 60 miles north of London, Ward went on. To brighten up the usual tourist attractions of ancient paintings, furniture and family heirlooms the 38-year-old duke has installed a juke box, a soda fountain, a zoo and a boating pool.

A jazz band plays Saturdays, with the duke on guitar. Last month he said he was considering asking the British nudists convention to meet in the grounds.

"That'll bring the customers in," he chuckled.

Monessen Scout To Make Trip To New Mexico

Jerome Krause, of Monessen's Troop 3, is one of eight Explorer Scouts from the Westmoreland-Fayette Council who will attend the national camp near Cimmarron, New Mexico, next month.

The scouts will pitch their camp at the Philmont Ranch, 127,000 acres of rugged western country on the slopes of the Sangre De Cristo range in the great Rocky Mountain chain.

The district expedition will be led by Don Buttermore, an Explorer leader from Perryopolis.

Buttermore is a school teacher in the Brownsville district. He has served in the past as a counselor in summer camps.

The scouts will leave from Greensburg on August 4 at 9:30 a. m. They will return on August 18 at 6:45 p. m.

Scouts who will join Krause on the trip are Charles Guinn, Troop 1, of Boquet; David Kerr, John Bair, James Jordon, John Jones, Jr., Alexander Wilson, Jr., and Ronald Yurinka, all of Post 2, Youngwood.

Drug Firms to Work on Vaccine For 'Oriental Flu'

WASHINGTON (UP)—The government told drug manufacturers today to proceed with mass production of a vaccine effective in warding off the highly contagious "Oriental flu" now spreading throughout the world.

Working closely together, government and industry scientists developed the vaccine in a "crash program" to make it available by the start of the flu season this fall.

The Public Health Service announced Wednesday the vaccine has been tested successfully on human volunteers injected with the Oriental virus.

The service has sent specifications for the vaccine to six manufacturers and expects them to begin turning out batches of shots soon.

Employment at Record Peak

WASHINGTON (UP)—The government today reported that employment across the nation in June hit a record peak for the month at 66,500,000.

The figure was up 1,300,000 over May, according to a Commerce and Labor departments report. The increase was due almost entirely to the rush of school-age youngsters into summer jobs, the report said.

Unemployment also rose by 600,000 over May totals to 3,300,000. Here again the accent was on youth, the report noted.

The unemployment figure reflected the influx of youngsters as job-seekers. Persons with temporary layoffs of less than 30 days and students waiting for work now are included in the unemployment figure.

New President of DA's Association

WERNERSVILLE, Pa. (UP) — Park H. Loose, of Blair County, Wednesday was named president of the District Attorney's Association of Pennsylvania, succeeding Robert T. Grannis of Venango County.

Also elected at the association's 23rd convention were: Richard Thomas, Crawford County, vice president; and Harold Bonno, Northumberland County, secretary. Frank A. Orban Jr., Somerset, Daniel E. Teeter, Adams, F. Porter Wagner, Montour, and Albert H. Aston, Luzerne, were named executive board members.

Tragic $5 Overture

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UP) — Chester J. Carnes, 47, of Tulsa, Okla., who was charged with stealing a Stradivarius violin valued at $3,500, apparently doesn't appreciate the finer things in life. Police said he sold the violin for $5.

Ike's Foreign Aid Program to Face New Trouble, Johnson Says

WASHINGTON (UP) — Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (Tex.) has predicted President Eisenhower's foreign aid program will run into new trouble from economy - minded congressmen.

He said the actual cash Congress puts up to run the program of military and economic aid to allies will be "substantially below" the figure Congress authorizes for the program.

The Senate has voted to authorize $3,637,000,000 for the program and the House Foreign Relations Committee has recommended an authorization of $3,242,333,000. The President sought $3,865,000,000.

Although the authorization figure apparently will be only slightly less than the President's request, congressional economy advocates get a second chance to trim the program when actual appropriations are voted. Johnson pointed out that cash approved for the aid program "is usually well below the ceiling."

Other congressional news:

Rights: A veteran senator, regarded as one of the shrewdest in the Senate, predicted the civil rights fight will end in a compromise. He said the water-down compromise probably will eliminate a provision permitting the government to start proceedings to get court injunctions against civil rights violations. Southerners have centered their criticism principally on this section of the administration bill.

Bricker: Sen. John W. Bricker (R-Ohio) said the ruling in the Girard case makes his proposed constitutional amendment "absolutely necessary now." He said he would press the Senate Judiciary Committee to bring up the controversial proposal immediately. His amendment, which Bricker has tried to get approved in previous sessions, would limit the effect of treaties and executive agreements as domestic law.

Cabaret: A drive gathered steam in Congress to cut in half the 20 per cent tax tacked onto the bill of cabaret patrons. The cut would save nightclubbers and persons patronizing hotel dining rooms with entertainment about 21 million dollars a year in taxes. The Treasury department's tax collectors oppose the planned cut.

Atomic: Chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the Atomic Energy agreed to a Democratic plan for construction by the AEC of small atomic power plants to generate electricity for a city and three rural cooperatives. This was reported by members of a joint congressional atomic energy subcommittee considering an adminstration-sponsored 70 million dollar AEC authorization bill.

Vandalism Only A Symptom

MONESSEN'S public school authorities are quite properly concerned at the extent of persistent vandalism which is destroying school property throughout the city.

The same sort of wanton destruction has been observed elsewhere in Monessen, particularly in the public parks.

The community clearly has a problem on its hands and one which it had better face squarely and resolutely.

The first impulse is to turn to the police, which is what the School Board is doing. And certainly the police have a job to do in such matters, a job at which they probably have not been doing all they could do. A little more vigor and determination on the part of the police would undoubtedly be a help.

But police action can hardly be a complete answer. Vandalism on the scale which has developed here is more likely to be an effect than a cause. It is a symptom, and while it needs to be dealt with, the real disease probably lies much deeper.

The real disease is a complication of social, and maybe political, ills: disrespect for law and authority, by adults as well as children; parental neglect and lack of discipline in the home; absence of respect for the rights of others; lack of pride in community improvements; acceptance of organized law-breaking as part of the community's daily life.

These are but a few of the chronic diseases of which vandalism is a symptom. The thoughtful reader will be able to add to the list.

* * *

THE REMEDIES for these ills are not easy to come by. There is no specific prescription for them, no guaranteed cure-all. And to the extent that they stem from nation-wide and world-wide social disorders, an individual community's efforts to combat them may have limited success.

But there is much that the community can do on its own to raise the standards of conduct on the part of both children and adults.

For one thing, youngsters who find it fun to throw rocks through the windows of school buildings are acutely sick. Moreover, in most cases they will probably be found to come from sick homes.

There are ways to discover these cases and to treat them individually, and if Monessen does not now have the facilities to accomplish this, its official and civic leaders had better see to it that such facilities are developed.

As we see it, the cost is not a formidable obstacle. Monessen is large enough and has sufficient resources to enable it to meet such problems as this with effective measures.

We might begin by looking carefully at what is already being done to be sure that it is yielding maximum results.

For instance, the city and the school district this year are together appropriating over $26,000 for a recreation program. Is it accomplishing everything that can be reasonably be expected? If it is — fine. If it isn't, something should be done about it.

* * *

WE HAVE long felt that Monessen could make good use of such facilities and programs as are provided in other communities by organizations like the YMCA and the Boys' Clubs. Most communities where such organizations are functioning consider them indispensable.

We can't find the money for such things? Nonsense! A town which is supporting about 25 fraternal and political clubs and whose liquor store does a business of over half a million dollar dollars every year has no shortage of money. Its people may be spending their money in the wrong places for the wrong things, but they aren't short of it.

What has to happen first, of course, is a community decision that something needs to be done. Parents, taxpayers, home-owners, industrial and business people, public officials, voters — just about everybody — must come to a common conclusion that their town lacks something and that they are ready to provide it.

Once that decision is reached, it is not difficult to find ways and means. A vast storehouse of ideas and experience is waiting to be tapped.

We think Monessen is at the point now where its people must come to this kind of decision. Not just to save the school board the expense of replacing stoned-out windows, but to save the personal characters and citizenship of hundreds of its young people. Can anybody mention a community asset more worth saving?

Today and Tomorrow—

Voting Rights and Integration

By WALTER LIPPMANN

Once again, as with the budget, the President has let it be known that he is not sure he is fully in favor of a major measure which has been put forward by his administration. Indeed, in the case of the civil rights bill, it appears that he has had a quite misleading impression of what is in it. Thus, at his press conference on July 3, he said in reply to a question that while he is not a lawyer and did not "participate in drawing up the exact language of the proposals," he did know "what the objective was that I was seeking." It was "to prevent anybody illegally from interfering with any individual's right to vote if that individual were qualified under the proper laws of his state."

Protecting the right of Negroes to vote in elections for federal officials is, in fact, the objective of Part IV of the bill, but the objective of Part III is to strengthen the federal power to enforce all the civil rights laws, including the law which calls for integration in the public schools.

The President has certainly been misled. In fact it is hard to see how he can have read the bill, if he thinks that it is directed solely, or predominately, at securing and protecting the right to vote. For, as the text shows clearly, the bill is a comprehensive measure for the better enforcement of all these civil rights, which exist in the laws but are in fact denied or nullified in various parts of the country.

Russell Scores

The President's lack of understanding of the bill enabled Senator Russell of Georgia to score heavily when he charged that the bill was an "example of cunning draughtsmanship," and that it was promoted by a "campaign of deception."

It certainly is puzzling to find the President so inadequately informed about the objectives of the bill. But whatever the reason for his misunderstanding, there has been no cunning deception. The text of the bill makes it quite obvious that much more than the right to vote is involved. The Attorney General, Mr. Brownell, during the hearings in the House committee and in a memorandum, dated April 9, 1956, specifically included integration in the public schools among the federal activities to be promoted by the bill.

There is no doubt, therefore, that the objectives of the bill are much wider than to secure and protect the right to vote. This raises great questions of principle and of national policy. For while the right of qualified adults to vote and the right to have their children attend unsegregated schools are both civil rights, there are important differences between the two kinds of rights.

Senator Russell himself recognized this in his speech of July 2 when he said that "the American people generally are opposed to any denial of the right of ballot to any qualified citizen" but that even "outside the South there are millions of people who would not approve" of the use of force to compel integration.

Amendment Wise

In principle, it is the duty of the federal government to use its legal powers to secure and protect the right to vote. But to promote integration it is its duty to use persuasion in order to win consent. The two objectives — voting and integration — ought not to be lumped together, and the wise thing to do now would be to accept an amendment to the bill which separates them.

No doubt there would still be a die-hard opposition in the deep South. But a bill which did only what the President thinks that this bill does, would be much harder to defeat. It would be hard to filibuster against it for any long time. For there are indeed millions of Americans outside the South who think that it is high time that the right to vote was respected. They do not think, however, that integration in the public schools can be or should be enforced more rapidly than local sentiment will accept it.

Insofar as the right of Southern Negroes to vote can be secured and protected, they will acquire powerful means for establishing all their rights. I am not sure whether Senator Russell's remarks, which are quoted above, really mean that Southerners of his eminence are now prepared to concede the right to vote. But if they do mean that, they mark a very great advance for the cause of civil rights.

A disfranchised minority is politically helpless. Let it acquire the right to vote, and it will be listened to.

Citrus wood was the most costly furniture of Roman antiquity. It was obtained from a tree of the pine family.

Merry-Go-Round—

Turmoil Reported in Russia

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Some weeks before he left Moscow, Ambassador Chip Bohlen reported deep-rooted churning inside Russia. He connected this with industry and domestic economy, predicted that because of this inner turmoil there was no danger of war with Russia for many years to come.

Mr. Pearson

In another report, Bohlen expressed the conviction that the Russian people had become so sold on peace that it would take intensive propaganda for their leaders in the Kremlin to convert them to war. He also expressed the view that the leaders in the Kremlin were convinced modern war would be so suicidal to both sides that no one would win; therefore Russia's future lay in a peaceful though vigorous struggle to control men's minds.

These reports had already been used by Harold Stassen as a guidepost for his arms talks, were one reason Stassen has believed the Russians are ready for a genuine arms agreement.

The reports are now being reviewed further in the light of the Kremlin crisis. Net conclusions: That deep trouble is stirring inside Russia, that the Russian people as well as the satellites must be given the alternative of more freedom or else strict Stalinist suppression; that the more-freedom school has won out.

Helping His Secretary

Congressman John J. Rhodes (R., Ariz.) has run afoul of an unwritten rule of the House of Representatives whereby congressmen refrain from criticizing the pork barrel projects of fellow members, especially when they are from different states.

Rhodes took the unusual step of writing a circular letter to members of the House Interior Committee, asking them to vote against a $32,220,000 irrigation project in the district of Rep. O. C. Fisher (D., Tex.).

The Arizona lawmaker called Fisher's bill a "thinly disguised municipal water project" for the city of San Angelo, and claimed it was not a proper assignment for the Bureau of Reclamation.

Naturally this did not please Congressman Fisher. When word of Rhodes' letter reached him, he did some quiet checking, then sent out a letter of his own.

"An examination reveals," wrote the Congressman from Texas, "that Mr. Rhodes' allegations are largely a rehash of testimony given by the sole witness who has ever expressed any opposition to our project — a Mr. Calvin McGowan, whose brother is Mr. Rhodes' secretary.

"The McGowan opposition was based upon the fact that some of the land which will be taken for the lakesite is owned by the McGowan family."

People-to-People Friendship

U. S. diplomats have been stung so often, either by McCarthy investigations or by the changeable Kremlin, that they are extremely hesitant about expressing public optimism about our future relations with Russia.

However, if, as seems almost certain, the current Kremlin ferment stems from a stirring of the Russian people, then this presents a heavensent opportunity to the United States.

The opportunity is to win closer friendship with the Russian people.

As this writer has frequently emphasized, and as President Eisenhower pointed out at the Geneva summit conference, the best guarantee against war is friendship among people.

For years the United States has not worried about war with England, France, or Canada for the simple reason that our peoples have too much common sense, plus friendship, to make war. They understand each other. But the hurdle of different political systems, different language, plus the Iron Curtain, has made friendship with the Russian people difficult.

Likewise the Soviet system of dictatorship was built for speedy decisions for war or peace without consulting the people. With no free press, no free churches, no free radio, there were no brakes on the Kremlin's ability to declare war anytime it wished.

Today, however, there is a stirring inside Russia — and a golden opportunity for an intensive campaign for people-to-people friendship.

American Iron Curtain

When Nikita Khrushchev proposed on CBS that we lower the American Iron Curtain, the only man who took him up vigorously was Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, who got slightly slapped for his pains by John Foster Dulles.

Since then six steel experts and six health experts from the U.S.A. and the U.S.S.R. will visit each other's country. That, however, is not people-to-people friendship. A total of 24 people visiting two countries of 168,000,000 and 200,000,000 respectively is not going to win many friends. It's going to be like dropping a pebble into the ocean. It won't cause a ripple.

The United States, in my opinion, has a political-economic-cultural system that we should show off to the world. Yet the State Department seems afraid to let people come over here to see it.

Perhaps Senator Johnson should conduct an investigation of the reasons why the State Department is sabotaging the officially announced policy of the United States.

The Cynic's Corner—

"If they're serious about this cultural exchange, let's challenge a Russian ladies' bridge club . . . !"

Cleaner Elections Is A Problem for U. S.

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Senate's new clean elections bill to keep politicians honest is trapped behind the civil rights dispute. The bill probably is dead for this session.

Its death would not be an occasion for national mourning. Congress has been legislating to keep politicians honest for a great many years without much success in preventing a great many politicians from being about as crooked as need be to win.

Mr. Wilson

Not all politicians, of course, or even half of them. But plenty. The Honest Ballot Assn. calculated a couple of years ago that 50 individuals at that time were holding relatively high elective office won under circumstances regarded as, at least, suspect.

Spending Control Difficult

The entrapped clean elections bill probably would not change that situation much nor impose honesty on the dishonest. There is for that a solid reason. A United States election is confusingly all-inclusive with thousands upon thousands of local and national candidates. It has proved so far to be impossible to control spending under such circumstances. The purposes of the pending bill would be to control campaign spending.

Congress could clean up congressional and presidential election practices in a jiffy if these elections were separated from all the local elections with which they now are complicated. It would be for the states to fix new and separate election days, which isn't likely.

Neither is it likely that Congress would go all the way in the matter of clean elections and spending as, for example, the British have done. British parliamentary elections take place under the strictest kind of rules, so strict that they would bewilder an honest American politician and almost surely entrap a crook.

The British rules were intended to limit or to abolish any campaign advantage a rich candidate might have over a poorer opponent.

Car Use Restricted

The rules are enforced. Use of automobiles to haul voters to the polls is limited to one car for every 2,500 registered city voters and one car for every 1,500 in the country. If a car breaks down on election day, it may not be replaced.

"Treating" by a candidate is forbidden. No election cigars. It is not against the rules to kiss babies. But don't lend a voter money if you intend to run for office in the British Isles.

Among the penalties for violating British campaign and election day rules is disqualification of the candidate if he is elected and punishment of his campaign manager or agent.

Policy Change—

Russia Makes Inroads In Iran's Cultural Life

By JOSEPH MAZANDI

TEHRAN, Iran (UP) — Anglo-American circles here are concerned over the rapid inroads the Soviets are making in Iran's economic and cultural life.

According to Western observers the Soviets are becoming more deeply entrenched, economically and culturally, than at any time in the present generation.

They fear the penetration could extend to the political field if Soviet Communist boss Nikita S. Khruschev continues his "smooth" tactics and "new look" policies and if Western business fails to show greater interest in this part of the world.

During and after World War II there was hardly a nation more unpopular with Iranians than the Soviets. The Red Army had ridden roughshod over the population of Iran's Azerbaijan Province. Red commissars had launched movements to annex parts of Iran for Russia. Soviet broadcasts villified Iranian leaders. The local Communist Party made life a series of riots in cities and towns.

New Look Arrives

Then came the "new look." The Shah and his beautiful empress were invited to feast at the Kremlin. Soviet ballet dancers and artists poured into Tehran. Soviet football teams, gymnasts, circus troupes, trade missions and technical experts flocked here.

Iranian newsmen, professors, radio performers, military officers and athletes went to Russia.

A team of Soviet technicians worked out a plan to irrigate northern Iran and provide it with electric power. Five Russian engineers offered to provide Iran with the best granaries it ever had. A Soviet team was commissioned to build modern wheat silos.

Negotiators worked out a transit and commerce agreement. Russia is second only to West Germany in selling goods to Iran.

This does not mean that Iran is going pro-Russian. It is a staunch member of the Baghdad Pact against Communism. Its sympathies lie with the West.

But, as one top government official told United Press, "The Soviets are now beginning to behave themselves."

Admit Policy Errors

They have abandoned their vitriolic broadcasts. They have openly confessed that Soviet policy toward Iran was wrong. They have promised not to interfere in Iran's internal affairs. They have proferred economic and technical aid. All they have asked openly in return is for Iran to "give us a chance to prove our good intentions and friendship".

"Faced with a situation like this," the official said, "what can we do? We won't go out of our way to make the Russians happy but so long as they do not openly act against us, we also have to act reasonable.

"After all, they are our immediate neighbors and we have a common border of 1,500 miles.

"We have even requested some of the more violent anti-Soviet segments of the press to discontinue attacks against the Russians.

"We are strongly opposed to Communism and will attack and squelch it whenever and wherever we can. But we cannot attack the Soviet Union merely because there is a Communistc regime there."

Four Blowouts Fail To Phase Auto-Racer

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UP) — The next time you have a blowout, keep in mind the case of Capt. George E. T. Eyston—who has to be the all-time iceberg of auto racing.

This goes back to 1938 on the Bonneville salt flats in Utah when Eyston drove the "thunderbolt" all-out down the black - painted stripe stretching interminably before him. The needle was pressing 350 miles per hour, the motor whined like a banshee and hot air hammered against the glass bubble over his head with frenzied fists.

Then the seven-ton iron monster trembled violently as all four tires blew.

"It was," says Eyston with storied British scalm, "a bit of a nuisance."

Roars To Record

Eyston fought it safely down and the next day the tall, white-haired Englishman eased himseslf back into that coffin-like cockpit and roared to a world speed record of 357.5 miles per hour.

Eyston went back to Bonneville in 1954 for a 24-hour endurance run and had another close one.

This time he was doing a mere 175 m.p.h. on a circular track when he burst a rear tire. Eyston slid a half mile sidewise and came to a standstill just two feet from a salt bank which, had he struck it, would have flipped him end over end. His recollection is equally stiff-upper-lip, old boy.

"It seemed like quite a long slide."

Three years later, the late John R. Cobb invaded Bonneville with his Railton Special and broke Eyston's world record with a run of 403.135 m.p.h. Cobb later was killed in a speedboat crash on Scotland's Loch Ness.

Racing Days Limited

Eyston's racing days are "almost" behind him now for the wealthy Briton is 60 years old. But he intimates that he's hoping to get behind the wheel once again next month at Bonneville.

This time he's going there as manager of a British team which will try to break the Class F record of 204.2 m.p.h. set by Lt. Col. Goldie Gardner in Germany in 1939. Stirling Moss, the famed British driver of this era, will handle the wheel.

Eyston's baby this time is a 1.500 cc. MG called "The Roaring Raindrop." It is only 15 feet long and three-feet high to the top of the plastic dome, with tires which are only two feet overall on a 15-inch wheel.

Was that his most embarrassing experience? Not at all. He went back to England with his brand-new 357.5 m.p.h. record in 1938—and was arreseld for driving 38 miles per hour in a 30-mile zone.

"It was," he says, "a bit of a nuisance."

Conners-Ortiz Set

BOSTON (UP)—Jimmy Connors of New Bedford, Mass., will meet Chico Ortiz of Puerto Rico in a co-featured eight-round bout at Mechanics Building on July 18 as part of the "talent show." Bob Berdahl of Boston meets Otto Smith of Newark, N.J., in the other eight-round bout.

Ozarks Keep Playoff Chances Alive

PNA in Rally for 6-5 Win

PNA posted a 6-5 comeback win over Italian Hall in local City League Softball play here yesterday before a large crowd.

Italian Hall garnered an early 4-0 lead in the third frame on three PNA errors and a hit. A walk, a force and two singles cut the margin to 4-2 but Italian Hall came back with another marker in the fifth to offset two by PNA in the same frame.

The winning un scored in the seventh when Tom Kovach, at bat with runners on first and third, lifted a sacrifice fly to plate the sixth run.

Rail Sekoski was going great guns on the mound for Italian Hall until he had to be relieved by Steve Hardoby in the third due to a lame arm. "Binks" Adamczyk went all the way for PNA giving up only four hits, one a circuit clout by Steve Hardoby.

Italian Hall's Joe Mancini doubled for the only other extra base blow of the game.

Tonight the Myfords meet the Ravens.

Rockets Extend Blackhawk Nine

The Blackhawks kept rolling along in Prep League play here yesterday but not before being extended to extra innings by the Rockets before capping a 2-1 extra inning game.

Dan Barton of the 'Hawks retired the first 13 batters to face him before Walter Jackson garnered the second hit of the game after Mike Kerestes walked to produce the tying run in the seventh for the Rockets.

In the eighth frame Barton literally won his own game when he tripled down the left field foul line to move into position for John Bogovich's single.

Barton fanned 11 and walked only one while Jackson of the Rockets showed excellent form in allowing only six hits. Barton gave up only two safe blows.

Action today shows the Blackhawks going again, this time against the cellar-dwelling White Sox.

Six Buc Errors Help Snap Winning Skein

PITTSBURGH (UP) — It took eight errors, three injuries, a protest that was called off and two hours and 27 minutes for the Pittsburgh Pirates to bid farewell to their latest four-game victory streak.

The Bucs committed six of the miscues as they went down, 7-2, Thursday night to the Milwaukee Braves.

Four Pirate errors, their injury and the protest came in the top of the ninth when the Braves managed two runs on only one hit.

Ed Mathews started the chain when he popped a foul and Hank Foiles split a middle finger trying to retrieve it. Mathews then hit a grounder which Bill Mazeroski and Dee Fondy both bobbled.

The umpires permitted Red Schoendienst to score on the error from second. That drew the protest from Pirate manager Bobby Bragan. But he called it off after the game and conceded the umpire decided questions of judgment when no rules were involved.

The last two Pirate errors in the inning came on a grounder, this time Dick Groat and Dick Rand fumbling a roller by Wes Covington.

The Braves lost two of their regulars in the first inning when shortstop Felix Mantilla and centerfielder Billy Bruton collided while trying to field Billy Virdon's looping fly.

Bruton suffered a bruised knee and required eight stitches for a cut lip. Mantilla's injury was diagnosed as a bruised chest. Both were scheduled for X-rays today.

The looping fly that started it all, put Virdon on second and set up the stage for Fondy's run-scoring single. The Pirates scored their other run in the fourth with Gene Baker taking the RBI.

The goat of the contest the night before proved the hero of the Braves attack Thursday. Johnny Logan, subbing for injured shortstop Mantilla, cracked a two-run homer in a four-run fourth inning rally. The night before his bobble cost the Braves three runs.

The Braves and Pirates go at it again tonight with Warren Spahn (8-7) the starter for Milwaukee against Pittsburgh's Ron Kline (2-11).

Major Corley's big bat plus the hurling of Johnny Czelen added up to a 16-2 win for the Pirates over the Yankees in Minor League play here yesterday.

Corley banged out three doubles and a single in five times at bat while Czelen hurled a six-hitter and fanned 10 batters.

The Bucs scored in every inning but the fifth in a ten-hit attack on Yankee pitching.

Billy Szabo doubled for the Bucs while Tommy Pushcar and Vitale clubbed two-baggers for the Yanks.

Brickner To Leave Sunday

Gus Brickner, the Charleroi steelworker who hopes to conquer the English Channel, said today that he'll "definitely" leave for London, England, this Sunday.

Earlier this week Gus hintd that he might not go since the owners of a nearby lake pulled out as his sponsors.

However a Pittsburgh trucking contractor, W. C. Falconer, came to Brickner's rescue. He has promised to pay about half of Gus' expenses.

That, plus Brickner's savings, and the funds contributed by district swimming fans should be enough to cover the expense of the costly venture.

Gus will leave Sunday morning at 11:00 from the Greater Pittsburgh airport. He will arrive in London on Monday morning at 10:30.

From there, he will travel to Dover, England. He will either train there or in Calais, France, across the Channel.

Brickner's trainer will be Edward Temme, who travelled the Channel twice, in 1921 and again in 1925.

Gus is hoping to become the first Pennsylvania ever to stroke across the tricky stretch of water.

"I want to thank all of those who helped me," said Brickner as he completed last-minute preparations.

Moore-Anthony Bout Sept. 11

LOS ANGELES (UP)—A match between champion Archie Moore and Tony Anthony for the light-heavyweight title appears definitely set here for Sept. 11.

After singer-actor Frank Sinatra offered to withdraw from the promotion and permit local clubs to handle it, the California Athletic Commission Wednesday gave informal approval for the match to be sponsored jointly by the Hollywood Legion Stadium and Olympic Auditorium.

Edge West Newton By 3-2 Count to Reach Fifth Slot

Manager Pappy Johnson's Monessen Ozarks nursed along their Mon Valley League playoff hopes last night by turning back West Newton, 3-2.

The Ozarks scored two runs in the first and another in the third to nip the visitors.

Jimmy Smith started on the hill for Monessen but a sore arm forced him out in the first inning. Fuzzy Anderson came on to finish out the tussle and earn credit for the win.

Thornton Sleith pitched good ball for West Newton, limiting the winners to just four hits.

Two walks and singles by Pappy Johnson and Carl Crawley produced a pair of Ozark runs in the first inning.

In the third, a hit-batter, walk and error accounted for another run.

In the fourth inning, the visitors punched over a tally. Jim DiClaudio made first on an error, swiped second and came home on another Ozark miscue.

Bill Marsh produced West Newton's second run in the sixth inning with a wallop over the right field fence.

The Ozarks will play host to Van Voorhis today. They have now reached fifth place in the MVL standings, but still need some sort of a winning streak to challenge for the first division.

Gomes-Perez in TV Bout Tonight

CLEVELAND (UP) — Lightweight Harold Gomes of Providence, R.I., is a 7-5 favorite to spoil the comeback of little Lulu Perez of Brooklyn tonight in a 10-round televised bout.

The bout will be Gomes' first one away from the East Coast and only his second on TV. The fast-climbing lightweight owns a record of 39 victories in 42 bouts, including 20 knockouts.

Perez will be after his third straight comeback victory, after overcoming a blood deficiency, which marred his fighting efforts during the past two years.

Fighting as a featherweight, Perez lost to Sandy Saddler in a title bout two years ago. His career went into a tailspin until doctors noted the blood deficiency.

DOCTORING YOUR GOLF

By CARY MIDDLECOFF

Palm Up

Lobbing a high pitch to the green and having it stop quickly after it hits is far from the easiest golf shot in the book. But it can be easy if you stick to the simple principle of finishing the stroke with the palm of the right hand facing up. This will keep your hands from rolling over and closing the clubface as you come into the ball.

Closing the clubface cuts down on the loft and adds to the roll—just the opposite of what you want on this lob shot.

To get the added loft this shot requires, position the ball at address up near the left toe. That allows you to contact the ball at the very end of your downward arc.

Positioning the ball further forward allows extra time for the hands to begin rolling over — and adds to the necessity for guarding against that. The right-palm-up finish is all the guard you need.

Hoak Vows He'll 'Get' Bums' Neal

BROOKYN, N.Y. UP) — Don Hoak of the Redlegs vowed vengefully today he'll whip Charley Neal of the Dodgers so bad his own wife won't recognize him" for the punch he threw at him in baseball's latest fist-swinging free-for-all.

I'm gonna get him and you can tell him that," stormed Hoak, who caught a haymaker by Neal in the fracas touched off Thursday night at Ebbets Field when pitcher Raul Sanchez of the Redlegs threw a beanball at Junior Gilliam of the Dodgers.

Sanchez' beanball came with two out in the last of the seventh inning and Cincinnati leading, 4-3. On the next pitch, Gilliam bunted along the first base line with the obvious intent of drawing Sanchez over and running him down. Gilliam's bunt bounded a few feet foul half way up the line, but as Sanchez came over to field the ball, Gilliam crashed into him and the two went to the dirt, fists swinging.

Within seconds, players from both dugouts flowed on the field and became embroiled in a fist-swinging melee that ranks with the June 15 Yankee - White Sox fight as one of the wildest in many major league seasons.

Neal came charging at Hoak and landed a clean punch to the head that knocked the Cincinnati infielder sprawling. Hoak, enraged, regained his feet and went after Neal. Four or five Redlegs held him off. The umpires and the rival managers had just about restored order when Hoak broke loose, charged Neal and had to be restrained once again.

When play was resumed, Hoak, Sanchez, Gilliam and Neal all were ejected from the game. The Dodgers, who wound up with first baseman Gil Hodges playing second, won the game, 5-4, on Duke Snider's seventh-inning homer.

Hartack Stays In Hospital

CHICAGO (UP) — Willie Hartack, the country's leading jockey, stayed in his hospital bed by doctor's orders today and it appeared he would spend at least four more days there.

Also, Dr. Herman J. Carr, track physician at Arlington Park, said that the broken vertebra Hartack suffered in a spill Wednesday would sideline him for "about three weeks."

Carr issued a statement Thursday in which he said that a re-examination of Hartack's X-ray plates showed he suffered a fracture of the "transverse process," a wing or spur of one vertebra.

Earlier, Hartack had been trying to persuade Carr and other doctors to release him by Saturday for his scheduled ride on Calumet Farm's Iron Liege, this year's Kentucky Derby winner, in the $00,000 Arlington Classic.

He resigned himself, however, to replacement by Dave Erb in the Iron Liege bid.

LL National Division All-Star Squad Set

Little League officials today released the National Division All-Star team.

The All-Stars will begin inter-district play next Monday at Memorial Stadium against the McKeesport Americans.

A Little League spokesman said Monessen's American Division team will be released tomorrow. The Americans also begin on Monday, meeting tonight's Glassport-Donora winner at the Stadium Annex.

All local Little League All-Stars who have been contacted are asked to report to the stadium Saturday morning at 9 o'clock for a physical examination.

Here are the National selections:

Eton Karenchak, Terry DelRosso, Vaughn Williams, Ralph Nuzzaci, and John Tobar, of CIO; Thomas Maatta, Edwin Kilpela, Larry Davis, William Tansmore and George Katsuleris, of the Elks; Frank Destefano, John Kachmarik and Richard Kunca of the Lions; and Claude Garry of the Legion.

The alternates will be William Bass of the Legion and Frank Chiprich of the Lions.

Managing the club will be Alex Karenchak, of CIO, the Division's first half champion.

The All-Stars were picked by the four respective managers.

The National Division will conclude its regular second half race tonight with the Legion meeting the Lions and CIO taking on the Elks.

Actually those games have no importance on the league race. The Elks assured the second half title a week ago.

No further activity is scheduled in the American Division until after the district playoffs.

Yank Runners Try for Mark

TURKU, Finland UP — Don Bowden and Tom Courtney, members of a touring American track and field team, will attempt to lower the world record for the half mile today on Turkus lightning-fast oil track.

Both Yanks were so impressed in watching three Finnish runners smash the world record for the 1,500-meter metric mile event Thursday that they asked officials to schedule a special 880 - yard event for them on today's program.

The request was granted by the officials, who said Bowden and Courtney also would be clocked at 800 meters in the same race.

Both Bowden and Courtney skipped Thursday's 1,500 - meter event in which the three Finnish runners — Olavi Salsola, Olavi Salonen and Olavi Vuorisalo — beat the world record o 3:40.6 set by Istvan Roszvolgyi of Hungary at Budapest in 1955.

Running over the same track where Australia's John Landy set the world mile record three years ago, Salsola finished first in 3:40.2. Salonen also was clocked in 3:40.2, finishing just a whisker back of the winner, and Vuorisalo was third in 3:40.3.

Zager Breaks Leg

CLEMSON, S.C. (UP) — Emil Zager, promosing Clemson football player, has notified the university he broke his leg in a baseball game at his home town of McKeesport, Pa., but said he is hopeful the leg will be mended by Sept. 21, when Clemson opens its schedule against Presbyterian.

Wheeling Downs Future Still Not Certain

WHEELIN, W. Va. (UP)—The future of Wheeling Downs was undecided today despite a packed turnout for the opening of a 66-day summer racing season Wednesday.

While a crowd of 5,000 was wagering $211,000 on the eight-race card run under clear skies, moderate temperatures and new management, the track's future was left pending in U.S. District Court on the other side of town.

James P. Clowes, an attorney representing Yonkers Raceway of New York, told Judge Harry E. Watkins his client planned to appeal the judge's decision to sell the track to Hazel Park Racing Assn. of Detroit.

Clowes said an appeal would be filed within a few days in the Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals at Richmond, Va.

Hazel Park purchased the track for the bargain price of $1,780,000 in an upset bid following government auction of the property to help satisfy a $,80,000 income tax bill against former owner William G. (Big Bill) Lias, former gambler and bootlegger now facing deportation to Greece.

At a June 28 hearing before Watkins, Yonkers entered a bid of $1,830,000 in an effort to upset the Hazel Park figure. But Watkins refused to consider the offer "because the New York group did not show good cause in submitting its bid."

Wednesday's racing marked the first time in eight months there had been any activity at the track.

War Marshall, paying $4.80 to win, captured the $2,000 Inaugural Handicap feature race.

Sewell 880 Winner; Yanks Sweep Meet

CHAMPAGNOLE, France (UP) —Arnie Sowell, the former University of Pittsburgh great middle distance runner, clocked in at 1:48.5 Thursday night to win the 800-meter run at an exhibition meet here.

The American track and field squad swept all eight events in the special meeting.

That's Right—Orioles Now In American's First Division

By MILTON RICHMAN

Typographical error, my eye!

That's really the Baltimore Orioles right up there in the first division today, and it's the first time they have ever been that high this late in the season since they entered the American League.

The amazing Orioles reached the lofty region of fourth place Thursday night by sweeping a twi-night double-header from the fading Indians by the scores of 5-4 and 5-4 (no typo, either), the first game going 11 innings.

Pilot Paul Richards, who makes the type moves no other manager will dare, gave a Houdinilike exhibition in an all-out effort to crash the first division.

He yanked starter Ray Moore in the seventh inning of the first game even though the score was tied and he had two strikes on Roger Maris. Ken Lehman completed the strikeout but he needed help from George uverink in the last of the 11th after the Orioles had scored two runs in the top of the frame on singles by Gus Triandos and Jim Busby.

Zuverink Appears Twice

Then, in the nightcap, Richards pulled out Bill Wight in the third inning even though Baltimore had built a 5-0 lead off Bob Lemon. He again called in Zuverink, who gained his eighth victory, and when the hard - working Zuverink weakened in the eighth, Richards led with his ace, Billy Loes.

All that masterminding paid off in the Orioles' 14th victory in their last 20 games. They are now a half-game ahead of both Cleveland and Detroit, and only three games behind the third-place Red Sox, who defeated the Tigers Thursday, 9-7. The Yankees padded their league lead to 3½ games when Mickey Mantle's 23rd home run in the 11th inning produced a 3-2 triumph over Kansas City, and Washington rallied for two runs in the ninth to beat the second-place White Sox, 6-5.

The Phillies took over second place in the National League by capturing a twi - night twin bill from the Cubs, winning the 11-inning opener, 1-0, and the finale, 3-1. The Giants defeated the Cardinals, 1-0; Brooklyn edged Cincinnati, 5-4, in a game marked by fist fights, and Milwaukee beat Pittsburgh, 7-2.

Sleater's Errors Costly

Pinch - hitter Gene Stephens drove in the winning run in the 10th inning for the Red Sox after Tiger reliever Lou Sleater caused his own downfall with a pair of errors on the same play. Stephens, batting for winning pitcher Ike Delock, singled home Frank Malzone and later in the frame, Jim Piersall drove in another run with a sacrifice fly. Billy Consolo and Ray Boone hit homers.

Mantle's homer came at the expense of reliever Tom Morgan and it gave the Yanks their 12th victory over the Athletics in as many games this season. Yogi Berra also homered for New York. Art Ditmar was the winning pitcher in relief of Bob Turley.

Rocky Bridges' single with the bases loaded in the ninth inning off Paul LaPalme was the blow that gave the Senators an uphill win over the White Sox. Jim Landis and Jim Rivera had given Chicago an early lead with home runs; Bud Byerly was the winner.

Granny Hamner's 11th - inning single helped the Phils to their victory in the opener after Bob Rush of the Cubs had held them hitless until the eighth. In the nightcap, Jack Sanford had a perfect game going until Dale Long singled with one out in the eighth. Sanford wound up with a four-hitter and his 11th win of the year. Joe Lonnett homered for Philadelphia.

Antonelli, Thomas Star

Southpaw Johnny Antonelli and battery-mate Valmy Thomas were the whole story in the Giants' victory over the Cards. Antonelli hurled a five - hitter and Thomas homered in the sixth inning off Lindy McDaniel, as the Cardinals' lead in the National League was whittled to two games.

The Dodgers came from behind to defeat the Redlegs when Duke Snider hit his second home run of the game with one on in the seventh inning off Tom Acker. Snider's second homer came shortly after a flare-up between Cincy pitcher Raul Sanchez and Dodger infielder Junior Gilliam that precipitated an even livelier fist fight between Charley Neal and Don Hoak. The whole fuss started when Gilliam felt Sanchez had thrown a pitch too close to him.

Johnny Logan's two-run homer featured a four-run fourth inning rally that brought the Braves their victory over the Pirates. Bob Trowbridge wet all the way for Milwaukee although tagged for 12 hits, while Bob Friend suffered his 10th setback.

Hornsby Sees Yankees Again for AL Flag

EDITORS' NOTE: Baseball Hall of Famer Rogers Hornsby, former manager, most valuable player, and National League leading hitter for six straight years, now directs Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley's Youth Foundation. However, Hornsby still has his old zest for outspoken hot stove sessions. Here is the way he sees this year's American League race at the mid-season mark.

By ROGERS HORNSBY
As Told To United Press

CHICAGO, July 10 (UP)—I wish I didn't have to say this but it's going to be the New York Yankees all the way.

The only ones who even can give them a race of it are the Chicago White Sox. Maybe at the beginning Cleveland, Boston and Detroit had a chance — but not any longer.

I don't think this is good for baseball. I think it's time somebody whipped the Yankees bloody. But who?

Cleveland had the pitching. Then the Indians lost Bob Lemon and Herb Score because of injuries. That shot them through with holes.

Chicago Has Pitching

I thought at the beginning that Detroit might come up with some pitching but the Tigers just haven't shown. As for Boston, that's turned into a club of individuals. They don't pull together.

The White Sox have the pitching, more or less. Billy Pierce holds up more than his share of the load. But there's no hitting.

The Yankees have it every way you look. Primarily, they've got the bench. When they're forced to put in a replacement the guy usually fits in so well that the team gets strengthened. It's almost a vicious circle.

The way I see the Yanks, they're primarily a four-man club: Yogi Berra, Mickey Mantle, Bill Skowron and Gil McDougald. At least one of these four is going to come through for you, every time. Usually, all four do. These guys aren't hot shots. They're day-in-day-out ballplayers.

Yanks Have Hitters

With Berra, Mantle, Skowron and McDougald as mainstays, the rest of the Yanks can afford to get hot and cold. At least one or two of the others are going to be hot at once so the Yanks have five, six guys smashing the ball while the other clubs have only one or two hitters.

Now you take the White Sox and the only really dependable hitter you find is Nelson Fox. He can't carry it all by himself.

What's the answer? I wish I knew. I like the Yankees and consider Casey Stengel and George Weiss my good friends. But I don't think it's healthy for baseball to have one club grab a monopoly on championships.

So it's like I said. I don't care who wins — so long as it's not the Yankees.

Mystery Man Turns Up Today In Hong Kong

HONG KONG (UP) — Donald Jackson Blackwood, whose disappearance two months ago turned into a cold war mystery showed up in Hong Kong today and said he had gone into Communist China to see what it was like."

U. S. officials said, "That's Blackwood's story" and refused further comment.

Blackwood, a onetime U.S. Air Force enlisted man from Cincinnati, disappeared from Portuguese Macao with his Korean wife and their child on April 27. The family arrived from Macao by ferryboat today.

American consular officials took Blackwood away for questioning the moment he set foot on Hong Kong soil but later sent him to a downtown hotel to rest. He was reported to have told American officials the Chinese Communists kept him and his family under surveillance at their Canton hotel and questioned him about everything."

He told the officials he got in one day's sightseeing but was confined to his hotel the rest of the time. He still had his camera when he returned but was wearing a shirt and pants given to him by the Reds.

Hope to Build Conspiracy Case On Segregationists

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UP) — Government attorneys today hopd to build a conspiracy case against 16 segregationists accused of interferring with the integration of Clinton, Tenn., high school in the face of a federal restraining order.

However, before prosecutors can continue their efforts to prove the defendants were aware of th federal court order banning interference, it must first dispose of a barrage of defense objections to testimony by newspaper, radio and television representatives.

The government put a newspaper editor on the stand Thursday to show that the defendants an injunction with full knowledge of its existence from local newspaper accounts.

"That was like waving a red flag in front of a bull," said defense chief Robert L. Dobbs of Memphis, Tenn. "It is unprecedented to try to sho wthat newspaper publication constitutes 'notice' of a court order."

oth the government and defense hoped this issue could be resolved by a stipulated agreement that the media representde by 10 to 15 rmaining witnesses did in fact disseminate reports of the injunction. This would be read into the record.

Chamber Admits Loophole in Hay Fever Haven

HARBOR SPRINGS, Mich. (UP) —Members of the Chamber of Commerce ruefully admitted today there were loopholes in their plan to publicize the Harbor Springs area as a haven for hay fever sufferers.

The chamber said it would pay 10 cents a pound for any ragweed found hereabouts. A spokesman said the chamber figured it could afford to pay out a few pennies here and a few pennies there to show there wasn't much pollen in the air.

But it didn't work out that way.

Schoolboys, looking for summer work, found their prayers answered. They carted ragweed in by the wagonful. More than 1,400 pounds of ragweed paid the gatherers some $140. An amount not to be sneezed at.

The chamber lowered the boom Thursday and announced that henceforth it would only pay 10 cents a bushel, hoping to throttle the eager schoolboys.

Well, It Figures

Moslems Anxious To Hear Will Of Aga Khan

GENEVA, Switzerland (UP—A sealed envelope in the office of a Geneva lawyer was reported today to hold two of the Aga Khan's best kept secrets — the name of his chosen successor and the amount of his untold wealth.

The 79-year-old leader of the Ismaili sect of the Moslems died Thursday morning following a heart attack at his villa in suburban Versoix. And his tens of millions of followers were most anxious to learn whom the Aga Khan had chosen.

It was believed the letter, containing the Aga Khan's will, would be opened today or Saturday. Moslems were anxious to know if Prince Aly Khan, 41, the nominal successor — or young Prince Sadruddin, 24, would inherit his father's leadership.

Two others were eligible, Aly Khan's two sons by his first marriage, 19-year-old Karim and 18-year-old Amine. But Aly, one-time husband of Rita Hayworth, was considered first in the running.

In the absence of President Blandon Bulger, the vice president, James Hamer, conducted the session. All members of the Belle Vernon board were present. Attending from North Belle Vernon were George Boston, Clifford Breakwell, Steve Ruby and Carmine Natalini; Washington Township, John Kasuda and Leo Valdiserri and Fayette City, James Hamer, George Hancock, Ben Sarra and Roy Shook. Van Bremen, Elementary Supervisor Joseph Brisbane and Solicitor Costello also attended.

Kuhn reported on the proposed integral Social Security program for teachers and announced that the required number of school districts had not objected to it. A referendum will be taken in August among the teachers desiring the program. The budgeting of funds to meet such a program was discussed.

Bus Contract

Gerald Stanley reported for the transportation committee. The committee recommended and the board approved a new contract with Vesley Bros. It was previously approved by the Fayette County office and will entail an increase of $4 a day over the previous cost. In turn Vesleys will provide a 60-passenger bus instead of a 48-passenger used last year.

The athletic committee recommended that adult admission to Bellmar football games be increased from 75 cents to a dollar. Student admission will remain at 25 cents. This was approved.

Pre-season training for the Bellmar squad will be conducted at Marion Junior High School with Richard Hamer taking charge of the meals and other details.

Dr. Vincent Bolton was retained as school doctor.

The Elizabeth football game on Oct. 10 will be designated as parents' night. A meeting of the building and grounds and athletic committees will be held to discuss needed repairs at the stadium.

Activity tickets will be issued to teachers, custodians and directors. Principal Raymond Barker will arrange with Burgess William Vennert for policemen at the football games.

Leo Valdiserri, reporting for the building and grounds committee, reviewed the extensive summer painting and cleaning program. The board approved the remodeling of the Fairhope kindergarten, purchase of a special sander and the advertising for bids for painting the trim on the Fairhope and Belle Vernon buildings.

Blacktop Playground

Bids will also be advertised for blacktopping the Fairhope playground. A new floor will be installed at Fayette City building 1 basement and bids will be taken for plastering and ceiling lighting.

At Belle Vernon a new heating unit will be installed in the elementary medical room, and asphalt tile floor will be laid in room 6. Bids wil be advertised for purchasing new drapes for Vernon auditorium. New gutters will be installed at the grade school.

New flooring will be laid in two basement rooms at Marion grade school, and new lights installed in Marion shop. The entrance to the Marion grade school will be remodeled.

Also listed were various repairs at the athletic field including work at the parking lots, repairs to the bleachers and permanent lights in the ticket booth.

Bids were received for installation of a new roof on Bellmar High School. The contract was awarded to Balta Heating Co. of Clairton after it is determined whether or not the firm is financially responsible and investigating the type of work they do.

Carmine Natalini, supplies chairman, submitted a list of needed equipment for all schools. This was approved. The B and C Coal Co. of Charleroi submitted an analysis of their coal and the bid of $7.90 per ton was accepted. King Typewriter Co. was low bidder for the purchase of 15 Underwood typewriters at $1215 with a trade in on the present machines. Peter Swiatek, of Donora, was awarded the contract to repair typewriters at $4 per machine.

Insurance Program

Kuhn reported that the personnel and finance committee met July 9 to discuss the insurance program in the Joint Schools with brokers, Lloyd Githens, Glen Anderson, William Vizzi, John Wilkinson, Milton Klein and Mr. Goodwin, of Monessen Realty and Chet Berlin, of Fidelity Phenix Co. After the appraisal discussion it was decided that $1,740,000 worth of fire insurance would be purchased, but the vandalism insurance was not purchased.

The program will be put on a five year basis and each of the four component boards will be permitted to allocate its part of the insurance as based on the average daily membership percentage figure. This was approved. A 60 day binder was taken on the present insurance until each board can work up its program.

This committee and the athletic committee interviewed 15 applicants for the basketball coach, baseball coach and assistant football coach jobs at Bellmar High School. Four or five are being considered and will be re-interviewed next Monday evening. A special meeting will be called if necessary to act on this matter.

The resignations of two teachers, Mrs. Frances Boag and Mrs. Katharine Vance were accepted.

Mrs. Georgetta Wiles requested permission to do three weeks of student teaching in September in the special education department. This will be granted and her salary continued. She will then be certified in this department.

Several applications were submitted for cafeteria work.

The board approved participation in the Fayette County speech correction program and will share in the services of Mrs. Joan Coatsworth as instructor. This will meet a jointure requirement.

Music Instructor

Also approved was the employment of Edmund Rizzutto, of Monessen, as music instructor. He was formerly music supervisor at Elders Ridge Joint High School. James Hoffman, a Bellmar and California State Teachers graduate was employed as a geography teacher at Marion repiacing Mrs. Boag.

Other teachers employed were Nancy Pore Neil for Marion fourth grade; Mrs. Mary Hazlett, of Fayette City, Marion sixth grade; Mrs. Isabelle Sloan, of Elco, Belle Vernon sixth grade and Mrs. Vera Jenkins, of Belle Vernon, half day kindergarten teacher at Marion.

This committee will submit recommendations on the custodian salaries at next meeting.

Van Bremen requested permission to place teachers and students for the coming term with the aid of Brisbane. He also asked permission to secure quotations on a charging desk for Vernon Junior High School library.

Van Bremen was granted permission to attend a Supervising Principal's conference, July 22,23 at Penn State. He also received permission to request a branch emergency certificate for Charles Wasicek in the commercial field.

Leader Signs Regulation On Sale of Air Rifles

HARRISBURG (UP)—Legislation to regulate the sale of air rifles to minors has been signed by Gov. George M. Leader.

The measure severely restricts the sale of the rifles to persons under 18. It specifies that persons under 18 could not legally purchase or borrow an air gun except from a relative. A lender or dealer violating the provision would be guilty of a misdemeanor and subject to up to a $100 fine and-or a 60 day jail term.

Any person under 18 who violated the law would be liable to a $10 to $50 fine and court costs or 10 days imprisonment.

However, the legislation said a youth under 18 could have an air rifle if he kept it in his home and used it only at target ranges under the supervision of an adult.

The new law becomes effective Sept. 1.

Gov. Leader also signed measures which would:

—Require state policemen to retire at age 60. The measure does not apply to persons now on the force who have less than 20 years service on its effective date, Jan. 1, 1958.

—Authorize the state Highways Department to construct a three million dollar bridge over the Schuylkill River between Potts-Grove Twp., Montgomery County, and East Coventry Twp., Chester County.

—Lower from eight to three the number of policemen needed on a community force before a pension fund could be established. The measure also lowered the number of years service needed for retirement from 25 to 20.

RED BANK, N.J. (UP) — The New Jersey Highway Authority reported today that the Garden State Parkway, the nation's safest super highway in 1955 and 1956, was even safer during the first half of 1957.

The authority said that in the six-month period ended June 30 there were three pedestrian deaths and only two motorist fatalities on the parkway, despite a four million vehicle increase in traffic volume.

During the first half of 195, there were seven traffic fatalities for a traffic volume of 21 million vehicles.

Cancer Researcher Refuses to Give Up Despite His Set Backs

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK (UP) — The AMA'S anti-Krebiozen report would have shaken a man of less faith than Andrew Conway Ivy has—in God, in himself, in the results of his own scientific investigation. He regards himself as a dedicated personality. He told this reporter "I live for one reason—to help people."

That has nothing to do with whether he is right or wrong about Krebiozen, but it is a measure of the man. There he was, a top man of medicine and science, with his world threatening to collapse. His friends told him to accept the report and recant. Otherwise he would be destroyed. He pulled back not one iota.

And this despite the fact that Dr. Durovic had dissolved the only existing supply of the white powder in mineral oil and had divided the oil into 200,000 ampules. That meant it would be extremely difficult if not impossible to obtain the kind of minute chemical analysis which would reveal what Krebiozen was, chemically, and which exact science requires — as a matter of course.

Ivy said this was the only time he was tempted to "pull out." Durovic said he had done it "thoughtlessly," with the idea of preserving the powder's potency.

Storm at University

The Chicago Medical Society, a constituent part of the AMA, was moving to punish him for allegedly violating a cardinal medical ethic — promoting a "secret remedy." A storm was rising at the University of Illinois whose president, Dr. George D. Stoddard, was displaying a lively interest in Ivy's activities.

Stoddard appointed a committee of medical professors versed in cancer, to evaluate all Krebiozen-treated cancer cases which now numbered several hundred. It reported Krebiozen had "no curative value," which Ivy had never claimed, but "we cannot state that it is entirely devoid of biological activity." It said the prime question was "the nature of the material" and until that question was answered, no further attention should be given to it.

Stoddard appointed another committee to undertake as thorough a chemical analysis as was possible of a substance dissolved in one of its own solvents, which meant it was utterly dissolved. As they have consistently, the Durovics insisted upon iron-bound protection of their commercial rights which this reporter does not imply is wrong—there is pirating in the highly competitive pharmaceutical industry. The Durovics judged the protection offered as insufficient and they did not supply ampules for analysis.

Ivy Makes Appeal

Stoddard's reaction was to restrict further Krebiozen research on university premises. Ivy appealed to the Illinois Legislature, on the grounds that Stoddard struck at academic freedom. A legislative commission began an investigation of what by now was the "Krebiozen affair" in March, 1953.

The Ivy-Durovic side put into the commission record this charge: Dr. J. J. Moore, treasurer of the American Medical Assn., conspired with the two business men either to get commercial control of Krebiozen or suppress it by ruining the Durovics. Moore, it was charged, had influenced Wermer into distorting and even "faking" parts of the AMA's 100-case report. Stoddard, it was added, was drawn into the "conspiracy."

As set forth in the record, this charge struck the reporter as exceedingly flimsy. But only the commission was qualified to judge and the 12 of the 14 members who attended the final meeting, unanimously cleared Drs. Moore and Wermer of the conspiracy charge, as well as the businessmen and Stoddard.

The commission had high praise for the integrity and selfless devotion to mankind of Ivy who, meantime, had lost his post as university vice president. Stoddard had had it abolished. As to the Durovics, the commission found that in the absence of any evidence to the contrary, it could not conclude they were "other than men of good character." Only Stoddard was criticized — for having been untactful." A few months later the university trustees forced him to resign.

Hole In Report

But all this is what Ivy calls "a side-show." On the scientific side, Ivy opened a hole in the 100-case report by showing that 24 of the 100 cases came from a young physician who said he was a "cancer expert" but had been in practice less than three years, and besides 23 of the 24 had been the cases of another physician who did not agree with his appraisal.

If those 24 are thrown out, 76 remain. They came from six physicians who are or were (one has since died) unquestionably cancer experts whose integrity is no more challengeable than Ivy's is. This reporter knows that these physicians have not changed their original views in the least. You can't blame medical doctors for not wanting to be quoted in a nasty controversy over a life-or-death matter, but Dr. Alton Ochsner of New Orleans, whose forthrightness matches his standing as a cancer expert, permitted himself to be quoted.

Contempt Charge Overruled

WASHINGTON (UP)—A federal judge has overturned the contempt of Congress conviction of Seymour Peck, New York Times deskman who balked at telling Senate investigators about political views of past associates.

Judge Luther W. Youngdahl ruled Thursday that the resolution setting up the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee was vague. Furthermore, he said, the subcommittee's practice of asking witnesses about past political associates is an "intolerable" invasion of privacy.

Youngdahl's decision was in line with the recent Supreme Court Watkins decision saying congressional investigating committees must have a legitimate legislative aim and must spell out their purposes to witnesses.

Watch the Birdie!

'WHAT WILL I DO TOMORROW?'—This seems to be the question 10-year old John Fleming, of Monessen, is thinking about. Right now, he said, he'd like to be a pilot in a rocket ship similar to the one pictured. "Maybe they'll have rockets to the moon when I get older. That's what I'd like to do—fly to the moon," he said.

Actress Issues Protest

LONDON (UP)—Actress Vivien Leigh went on stage Thursday night in a play in which she gets her tongue cut out. But she made sure it was put to good use beforehand.

Miss Leigh, wife of Sir Laurence Olivier, had staged a one-woman protest against the closure of an ancient London theater in the House of Lords a few hours before she went on stage in Shakespeare's "Titus Andronicus."

Her outburst stunned the staid chamber as it had never been stunned before.

Miss Leigh, who had been sitting in the distinguished visitors' box—in the seat occupied last year by Nikita Khrushchev—suddenly leaped to her feet as one noble lord finished a speech and another was rising to have his say.

"My lords, I want to protest against the Saint James' Theater being demolished," she cried in ringing tones.

All was confusion. Sir Brian Horrocks, whose official title is gentleman usher of the black rod (sergeant at arms) tapped her shoulder and said sternly, "Now you must go."

Miss Leigh went. The legislators, after a buzz of conversation, resumed their debate. None but members of the house is permitted to speak in the House of Lords.

Afterwards Miss Leigh said she felt she had to speak out in defense of the Saint James Theater, a 122-year-old auditorium which is to be torn down to make way for an office block.

"I got so angry," she said. "If they tear down many more of our theaters I shall go and live somewhere else, away from Britain."

Religious Leader Discusses Many Problems in Halting Atomic Tests

(The author of this week's religious column is director of the Commission of Churches on International Affairs. The commission was established by the World Council of Churches. The Writer discuss problems involved in attempting to limit or stop testing of nuclear weapons.)

By DR. O. FREDERICK NOLDE

The current public discussions about experimental testings of large nuclear weapons frequently fail to take into account the fact that this problem does not stand by itself.

The concentration upon the dangers of continued testing—both for present and for future generations—is to be welcomed as a prick to conscience and a stimulus to action. However, other problems which are closely related to the testing of nuclear weapons ought to be seen in their proper context if mankind is to move more surely toward a healthy and peaceful world society. Discussions may become more intelligent and meaningful if the inter-related problems are looked at together.

One significant point seems to be emerging out of the varied and often conflicting scientific opinion aired in the present debate. Since there is conceivable danger in the radioactivity to which man is normally exposed in his environment, any increase except for approved medical purposes is not good. The objective must therefore clearly be to end or to control tests under international auspices. How shall this be done and under what conditions?

Two Points Of View

Differing approaches to this question bring forth a variety of answers but two points of view seem to be most prominently expressed. Those who believe that the danger to health in the present circumstances is exceedingly grave argue that the tests should be stopped immediately and they are only secondarily concerned with related problems or safeguards to ensure compliance with treaties. Others, while recognizing a danger to health but not considering it of immediate gravity, believe that a margin of time is allowed for negotiating agreements which will most fully utilize available scientific knowledge and will as adequately as possible protect the security of nations.

As the spotlight has been turned on the hazards of experimental tests, public attention has increasingly been directed to the radioactive dangers in the peaceful uses of atomic energy, as well as to dangers in practices which have been resolved—underscores the importance of safeguarding against the dangers from the peaceful uses of atomic energy as efforts go forward to reap their benefits.

Not unrelated to testing is the reliance upon the possession of harnessed power—even after military aspects of nuclear weapons

Not unrelated to testing is the reliance upon the possession of nuclear weapons as a deterrent to aggression. With the apparent decrease in manpower and conventional armaments, will there be recourse to atomic weapons which have been tested, even if only limited conflict breaks out? If this should prove to be the case and Pandora's box is opened, one must contemplate the awesome possibility that either party to the conflict will be tempted progressively to use larger weapons as the tide of battle runs against it.

The contention that the cessation or control of testing and progress owards disarmament are related has considerable validity. This does not mean that separate action on testing is impossible or that conditions cannot be imagined under which separate action would be desirable.

LIGHT FOR LIVING IN A BED OF ROSES

Enjoy your flowers after sundown

Now you can have more hours to stage your own private flower show. Plan the light so that you silhouette one bed and highlight another, so that you focus interest on special groups of blossoms or even change the color and effect of others. Over-all floodlighting placed on trees or the house or garage will give unity to the whole garden vista, while special mushroom type reflectors will put the spotlight on blooms that are your greatest pride and joy. It's easy. The methods are summed up in an exciting little book, "Light For Living . . . Outdoors." Ask for your copy.

You can get the "Light for Living . . . Outdoors" booklet from your lighting dealer. It's free—just ask for it.

Anything Available In Evening Clothes

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UP) — Pay your money and take your choice of silhouette, fabric and color in the new evening clothes.

Designers show skirts straight as a column, skirts with harem hemlines, skirts with short trains at the back but raised to mid-calf in front, skirts shaped like bells, lanterns or domes.

Necklines show just as much variety, although the accent for fall is on bareness rather than cover. That old-time favorite, black crepe, is revived for both short and long evening wear in designer collections being shown this week to visiting fashion reporters. The shows are sponsored by the couture group of the New York Dress Institute.

Flowers In Fall

The flowers that usually bloom in the spring are blossoming throughout Seventh Avenue's fall lines. These include flower-printed brocades and taffetas, some of them in neon-bright colors, others in muted combinations.

Evening wear usually features glitter, but this fall there will be more than usual. It is a rare designer without at least one beaded, sequined or embroidered cocktail or evening dress in the collection.

Favorite fabrics for evening, besides the crepes, are chiffon lame, jacquard with its elaborate pattern woven in, the cut and panne velvets, satin chiffon, silk georgette, brocades and chantilly and re-embroidered laces.

Colors All Over

Black and white, and the vivid blues, greens and reds show through all lines.

Fur trimming is as widely used for evening as for daytime. The firm of the late Hattie Carnegie collared a brocade dinner suit in white mink. Oleg Cassini showed a pale blue satin ball gown with a cerulean mink cuff around the strapless bodice.

Tine Leser stressed the knit or sweater look in her clothes shown yesterday. One of her tricks for the college set is a wide striped knit jersey "union suit," covered by a black knit skirt. She combined extra long cashmere sweater tops with skinny-cut cashmere wool or tweed skirts.

Tell Tale Stripes

CHICAGO (UP)—Robert Holmes was quiet enough but his shirt was too loud. Holmes and two others managed to elude police for six hours Wednesday by hiding behind false walls of a Chicago theater. But a policeman spotted Holmes' brightly striped shirt through a hole in the wall and arrested the trio on burglary charges.

Suez Improvements

CAIRO (UP)—Egypt will spend $22,400,000 of this year's Suez Canal revenues for improvements on the waterway, the weekly newspaper Akher Saa said today. The weekly also said Egyptian minesweepers had cleared all mines from the Gulf of Suez.

2 Memorials

In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Jeffrey Lynn Billy, who died two years ago today, July 12, 1955.
Two little hands are resting,
A loving heart is still,
A little son we loved is waiting
For us, just over the hill.
The memory of his dear wee ways
Will linger with us all of our days.
Sweetest flower, too sweet to stay,
God took him home to show us the way.
Sadly missed by Mother, Dad and brother, John

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, George Pidich, who died three years ago, July 11, 1954.
Gone into the light that shineth so fair,
Gone from this earth of sorrow and care,
Resting those hands that did their best,
Gone, dear father, gone to rest.
Dearest loved one, how we miss you,
Since from earth you passed away,
And our hearts are aching sorely,
As we think of you today.
Sadly missed by Wife and Children, George, Charles and Carol

Packers Fight Controls

WASHINGTON (UP)—The nation's major meat packers are fighting a two-front capitol hill battle against control by the Federal Trade Commission and a compulsory humane slaughter law.

Lobbying has been intense on both sides of both issues. The packing industry is split on the question of FTC control. Industry factions and humane groups have accused each other and the administration of trickery, bad faith and pressure tactics.

The results to date:

—A humane slaughter bill, opposed by the administration and the meat industry, has been approved by the House Agriculture Committee and is awaiting House action. Administration leaders concede privately that they have little hope of defeating the measure once it reaches the floor, although they may be able to get it amended.

"No congressman can afford to be against humane slaughter in public. It's like being against home and mother," one official said.

—Bills giving the Federal Trade Commission control over many business practices of meat packing companies are pending before the House and Senate judiciary committees. The Agriculture Department, which now has responsibility for regulating the meat industry under the 35-year-old packers and stockyards act, opposes the bills.

Smaller, independent western packers, fearing an invasion of their territory by the major midwestern and eastern meat firms, support the change to FTC control. The American Meat Institute, representing the "majors" as well as hundreds of smaller packing plants, is fighting the proposal.

Prospects for early congressional action on the FTC control bill were clouded recently when Rep. William S. Hill (R-Colo.) introduced an administration-backed counter measure.

The House Agriculture Committee has scheduled hearings on the hill bill July 9 and 10. The measure would leave the Agriculture Department in control of both livestock purchasing methods and trade practices of all firms which are mainly engaged in meat packing. The FTC would be given control of wholesaling and retailing practices of firms which own all or part of a packing plant but are not mainly engaged in meat packing.

Animal protection and humane groups, led by the Humane Society of the United States, contend that animal slaughtering methods used in most U.S. packing plants are needlessly cruel and wasteful.

Ability to Laugh Is Best Pain-Reliever

(William Ewald is on vacation. Today's guest writer is Sam Levenson, emcee of CBS-Tv's "Two for the Money".)

By SAM LEVENSON

NEW YORK (UP) — Somebody once said that a man without a sense of humor is capable of the worst villainy.

I don't know who said it. It might even have been me. I believe that the ability to laugh is a pain-reliever that was around before aspirin and will probably survive the atom bomb. Perhaps even the tranquilizers.

People often ask me why I laugh at my own jokes. I really don't. I laugh at laughter. When I see people laugh it makes me happy, so I laugh. As the proverb says: "I had rather have a fool to make me merry than experience to make me sad." (I don't know who said that either, but this time I know it wasn't me).

World Needs Fools

Perhaps I have just called myself a fool, but this foolish world needs fools. There, so now I have justified my existence.

Man is the only animal that can laugh. And he probably has the least reason to do so. Animals feel fear, hunger, joy, lovein fact, they feel everything but ridiculous. If they could laugh out loud, they probably would laugh at man. This would give them a feeling of superiority and they would probably organize and refuse to work for us.

This feeling of superiority is the one thing above all else that I try to avoid in my laughter. I never tell jokes aimed, however subtly, at physical defects, mental illness, or racial or religious slurs. I don't believe that God gave us this gift of laughter to be used as an instrument of oppression.

Laughs At Self

Sometimes I laugh (and this is indeed foolish) because the gift I offered was not accepted — the audience did not laugh. I laugh because this is a funny situation. Here am I handing a guy a present and he doesn't want it. This is silly. I now find myself laughing at myself. This, too, is healthy. Since I am only human I can be just as ridiculous as the next fellow and heaven has reminded me of this in a gentle manner.

There is always a danger when writing about laughter to become very analytical and unfunny, so I'd better quit while I'm ahead (if I am).

I'd rather wind up on this note. It is a prayer inscribed in the Chester Cathedral in England:

Give me the grace to see a joke
To get some happiness from life
And pass it on to other folk."

Poetry Tonight On TV Station WQED, Channel 13

Poetry of the past and present, representing the works of writers from all parts of the world, soon will be brought to the television screen.

A 15-minute program featuring poetry readings by Keith S. Armstrong will be presented over Channel 13 beginning tonight. The program, "Look to Poetry," will be telecast at 10 15 p. m., and the second show is set for that time.

The program host, who has devoted much study to foreign languages, holds two degrees from West Virginia University — an A. B. (1940) and an M. A. (1941) in English. He also studied "Cinematography" for one year at the University of Southern California, and returned to West Virginia for additional study of literature and classical music.

Armstrong has written music for West Virginia University Press Club performances and both wrote and played background music for radio drama classes. He studied radio production for four years, composed copyright songs, and transcribed folk music for published books. Armstrong served as a librarian at the 42nd Street New York City Public Library, and also studied at the Manhattan School of Music.

WQED's new program personality was an instructor in English literature, grammar and composition, and further was a reviewer with the 20th Century Fox pictures story department. Armstrong's service career in the Signal Corps has taken him to both Alaska and Canada.

Your Health—

Do 'Three Squares' Fill All Your Needs?

By H. N. BUNDESEN M. D.

In the beginning, nature provided us with all she thought we'd need and for a long, long time it was plenty. Now, however, she needs the help of our medical laboratories.

For today, food alone isn't enough for most of us. We need more food value than we can get simply by eating our regular meals.

I wish you could come into the laboratory with me to see how wonderfully nature did provide for us.

Long ago, I wondered why some vegetables grew above the ground and some below; why some were red, others yellow and still others green. I found the answers in the lab.

Some vegetables — fruits, too, of course — contain certain items highly important to the welfare of the human body; others contain different articles, just as valuable but in another way.

Carrots, spinach, lettuce and tomatoes for example, contain a high quantity of vitamin A which helps guard us against infections and eye trouble.

Beans and peas are particularly rich in the B vitamins which help keep us from tiring easily, protect our appetites and generally aid in maintaining all around good health.

Vitamin C keeps our teeth and gums healthy. It's found primarily in such foods as tomatoes, oranges, lemons, grapefruit, turnips, raw cabbage, potatoes, fresh green vegetables, cantaloupe and fresh berries.

I could go on and on, but I think you get the idea.

Nature gave us an appetizing variety of foods from which to choose. By eating some of this and some of that, we would get some of everything we needed.

But her plans were formulated some time ago — long before the days of automobiles, mechanical farm equipment, automatic heating and cooling devices, long before so many of us spent so much of our time sitting down.

State Increases Clinics For Crippled Children

Beginning this month, the state Health Department will increase the number of its orthopedic diagnostic clinics for crippled children from twice a year to once a month in Uniontown and Greensburg, county seats of Fayette and Westmoreland counties respectively.

Crippled children's clinics in these cities have previously been conducted only in the Spring and Fall, but because of the large case load in the areas served by the clinics, and in order to provide more orthopedic treatment and initiate monthly sessions of the follow-up care, it was decided to initiate monthly sessions of the clinic.

Dr. Paul Dodds, chief, Crippled Children's Section, state Health Department, said the Uniontown clinic would be conducted the second Wednesday of each month in Uniontown Hospital at 9 a. m. The orthopedic surgeon will be Dr. John Heberling; pediatrician, Dr. John D. Sturgeon.

The first of the monthly clinics in Greensburg was held yesterday in the state clinic rooms, 128 West 2nd St., at 9 a. m. The third Thursday of each following month will be the designated time. The orthopedic surgeon is Dr. John Donaldson; pediatrician, Dr. J. H. Zimmerman.

Under the state's crippled children's program, each clinic is conducted by an orthopedic surgeon who makes recommendations for the care and treatment of those patients examined. Other personnel in attendance includes a pediatrician, nutritionist, a public health nurse, supervisor and staff nurses, shoemaker and appliance maker, physical therapist and a secretary.

It is the purpose of the clinic to examine all crippled children who are in need of such attention and are not receiving it. In providing this diagnostic service the state Department of Health cooperates in many counties with the Pennsylvania Society for Crippled Children and Adults, war veterans organizations and service clubs. Physicians are invited to refer or bring into the clinic any orthopedic cases they have in charge.

Book Borrower's Guilty Conscience

NEW YORK (UP)—A penitent book borrower silently stole up to the doorstep of a Brooklyn public library earlier this week and deposited a carton of 32 books which had been checked out in 1935, officials of the library disclosed Thursday.

Librarians believed that the repentant reader, who preferred the classics may have been moved to remorse by the library's recent plea for a return of 92,000 overdue books.

The anonymous reader's fine—calculated on the basis of 2 cents a day for each overdue book—would amount to $5,621, the library said.

Locust Plague Is Threatening Africa

ROME (UP)—The worst locust plague in 28 years is threatening North Africa, the Nile Valley and the Middle East, the United Nations Food and Agricultural Organization (FAO) said today.

FAO experts compared the situation with the 1929-30 plague "considered the most serious invasion year in modern history." They said major danger spots are Libya, Tunisia, Tchad, Sudan and Saudi Arabia.
